Seek Working Agreement

Dag, Nasser Talk On Suez Controls

CAIRO (AP) — U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold met again with President Nasser today on the complex problems still plaguing the Middle East.

Accompanied by his deputy, Ralph Bunche, the secretary general went to Nasser's rest home on the Nile eight miles from Cairo for talks that were expected to continue throughout the day. The discussions were expected to cover the continuing controversial issues of the Suez Canal, the Gaza Strip, the Gulf of Aqaba and the deployment of the U. N. Emergency Force.

Discussion of most of these points was initiated earlier in talks Hammarskjold held with Nasser and Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawsi.

Key Problem

As outlined here, the problem with the canal being reopened progressively to shipping of increasing size, is to guarantee the users' rights without challenging Egypti sovereignty.

Diplomatic sources said Nasser is agreeable to the creation of an advisory body to serve as fact-finder and arbiter on canal problems, but the big question is whom this body would represent.

Hammarskjold reportedly suggested originally that some organization of users of the canal consu with Egypt on the question of how canal tolls shall be paid, how the waterway shall be maintained and improved, and other problems.

Nasser's View

Nasser has insisted that full payment of canal tolls must be made to Egypt, but has indicated he might agree to set aside a specific fund for maintenance.

Nasser objects to the Suez Canal Users' Assn. set up in London last August by 18 countries primarily shippers. Egypt contends this body is dominated by Britain and France and should be broadened to include other nonshipping countries whose economies depend heavily on the canal, such as Saudi Arabia.

Informants said Nasser's formula calls for adding these countries to those who sent ships through the canal in 1955. This would push the number of users up into the 50s. It also would exclude Israel.

On Gaza, Egypt thus far has gone along with Hammarskjold's recommendation that Egypt presently not excise its Palestine armistice right to send a brigade of troops into the area. U.N. raised no objections to the restoration of Egyptian administration in the strip. UNEF troops were redeployed from inside the Strip to positions along the border with Israel.

Meeting Slated By Society on Coliseum Debt

Members of the Marion County Agricultural Society and the Marion County Commissioners will meet with representatives of Ohio Sports Service, Inc., of Buffalo, N. Y., Thursday to discuss the Coliseum, Joseph Vogel, president of the agricultural group, announced today.

At the meeting, the local officials will attempt to determine what course of action Sports Service intends to take with regard to a reported debt of approximately $70,000 owed to the firm by the Coliseum.

The meeting was requested by the agricultural society after a session March 7 in which the society decided to take over control of the Coliseum from the Coliseum Board of Governors which the society had created to operate the building when it was first opened.

The board of governors was called an "illegal body" in a report of a state examiner who audited the Coliseum books earlier this year. The examiner also was critical of the Coliseum management and bookkeeping practices.

An opinion from the state attorney general on the legality of the Coliseum board has been sought by County Prosecutor Robert O. Stout, but the attorney general has not yet made his reply.

Building Code Revived

Fast Time, Sewers Will Be Discussed by Council

Sewer improvements, Daylight Savings Time and revival of an ordinance to adopt a building code in Marion all will be up for consideration of City Council at its regular meeting Monday night in City Hall.

A total of 15 pieces of legislation appears on the agenda for the meeting. They include two resolutions of necessity for improvements of Seminole and Mandana avenues around Harding High School.

THREE RESOLUTIONS of necessity for proposed sanitary sewer improvements will be considered again. At its last meeting the same resolutions were on the agenda but council decided to study them in detail before proceeding.

The three resolutions call for a trunk sewer on Silver St., a Davids St. sanitary relief sewer, and a relief sewer on Pearl St.

An ordinance to adopt "fast" time here from May 12 to Aug. 31 may draw forth some opposition. Some labor groups have taken a stand against the proposal.

COUNCIL'S PLAN is to adopt the Daylight Savings Time here only if the residents of the city of Columbus vote for it at the May primary. A number of other communities in central Ohio are considering similar proposals, all based on the outcome of the Columbus election.

Reports are that the labor groups oppose the "fast" time because they feel it holds no advantage for them since the work day for most of them normally ends between 3 and 4 p.m.

Those who work in stores, offices and other businesses which stay open until 5 or 5:30 p.m. reportedly are more in favor of the "fast" time. Proponents also argue that if Columbus goes on "fast" time the difference in times between Marion and Columbus

Mass Strike Hits Britain; 1 Million Out

Workers in Heavy Industries Lay Down Tools, Ask Pay Hike

LONDON (AP) — A strike of one million workers in Britain's key heavy industries began officially at noon today.

Thousands of industrial workers already had jumped the gun on the strike deadline by failing to report for work Friday night.

The walkout started only a few hours after settlement of a menacing railroad labor dispute and announcement that a strike by 200,000 shipyard workers may soon be ended.

Unions representing the industrial workers plan a progressive expansion of their walkout to close down 4,300 plants employing three million men by April 6 unless there is an intervening settlement of demands for a 10 per cent pay boost. The industrial workers now get a $36.24 weekly average wage.

The massive stoppage would halt aircraft, electrical and heavy engineering production, all vital to Britain's export program.

The same group of unions represents the workers in the shipyards and in the industrial plants. The shipyard strike began one week ago and has resulted in the closing of 70 yards. Under government pressure, the two sides finally agreed Friday to face - to - face negotiations. These begin Monday.

A possible clue to an acceptable compromise was provided Friday when the National Union of Railwaymen, representing 370,000 men, and the government commission which runs the railroads agreed on a 5 per cent wage increase. The railwaymen, like the shipyard and industrial workers, had demanded a 10 per cent wage boost.

$1,465,922 Is Paid in Taxes

First-Half Collection In County Is Closed

With books for the first-half collection of 1956 Marion County real estate taxes officially closed today, an unofficial tally shows a total of $1,465,922 taken in, according to Marion Hinklin, county treasurer.

There still are a few returns yet to be received, Mr. Hinklin pointed out, but he added that the job of balancing the books will begin almost immediately.

The amount that should have been collected for first-half payments totaled $1,402,100, the treasurer said, indicating that about $63,822 was paid on second - half collections, due June 30.

It will take several days to make a final check of the books, Mr. Hinklin noted, after which it can be ascertained exactly how much money was collected from each of the county's taxing districts.

U.S.-British Partnership Restored

Ike-Macmillan Parley Near Windup, Split Seen Mended

TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda (AP) — President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan worked to wind up their fast-moving Bermuda conference today with evidence that the worst wounds in British - American relations had been healed and a working partnership in world affairs restored.

Officials said there was a possibility the two Western leaders would hold a final meeting Sunday morning, but it was hoped the main work could be concluded by tonight. Eisenhower plans to leave for Washington Sunday, but it had not been decided whether he will go by plane or sail aboard the U. S. Guided missile cruiser Canberra.

Macmillan will remain here until the middle of next week to confer with Canadian Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent, who is to arrive Monday.

Strict secrecy was the rule for today's first session between Eisenhower, Macmillan and a restricted group of their advisers on military defense and atomic problems.

That plan was followed late Friday when they opened the discussion of Britain's diminishing military position over the world and possible U. S. countermeasures to maintain the free world's strength against Soviet power.

Enough is known on the general progress of the talks, however, to provide support for the view of officials that the meeting has gone well and the split which developed between the United States and Britain last November over the invasion of Egypt has been largely closed.

The U. S. announcement Friday of America's willingness to join the military committee of the Baghdad Pact was being interpreted here as evidence of agreement for close British-American collaboration on Middle East defense strategy against the Communist threat. Until the last two weeks the Eisenhower administration had not been willing to go beyond cooperation with the economic and anti - subversion committees of the Baghdad alliance.

Along with the other pact members, Iran, Iraq, Turkey and Pakistan, the London government has long wanted the United States to join the Baghdad group as a full-fledged treaty member.

While the move was hailed by the members of the alliance, it was certain to bring an opposite reaction from Arab states that have bitterly denounced the pact's existence.

Eisenhower was reported to be holding off on any Middle East decisions until the results of the current Cairo talks between U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold and Egyptian President Nasser became known.

Naval Airmen Add 'Spice' to Routine Flight

SANFORD, Fla. (AP) — Just "to add a little spice to a routine ferrying job," three Navy airmen set an unofficial cross country record time of 3 hours 39 minutes and 24 seconds on a flight from California to Florida, Friday.

They averaged about 640 m.p.h. Lt. (j.g.) Ralph S. Barnett, the pilot, said he made no effort to push the twin-jet A3D Navy attack bomber to its maximum and didn't know he bettered the record until he sat down to dinner at Sanford Naval Air Station.

While the record bettered by eight minutes the time made in January by an Air Force B47 it will not be official because timing arrangements were not made in advance with the International Federation which certifies such records.

Barnett and his crewmen were delivering the new plane from the Douglas factory in California to Sanford NAS in Central Florida.

The plane they flew is similar to one which set a round trip coast-to-coast record a day earlier.

Objects in Sea Speed Search For Transport

TOKYO (AP) —A U.S. Navy destroyer plowed through choppy, seas today to investigate a report of "yellow objects" as a possible clue to the fate of 67 Americans aboard a military transport that vanished Friday off the coast of Japan.

Officials conducting what was described as the greatest air-sea search in Far East history said there was no evidence that the objects were connected with the missing four-engine C97. The big plane, on a trans-Pacific flight from California to Japan, carried yellow life rafts, yellow "Mae West" life jackets and packets of yellow dye marker.

Air Force officials cautioned that the area where the objects were reported was about 100 miles south of the plane's last reported course and that yellowish sea weed often is mistaken for life jackets or rafts.

The missing C97, version of the Boeing Stratocruiser, carried 57 passengers, including a woman military dependent, and a crew of 10. The crew included two women members of the Air Force.

Relatives in Ohio

WASHINGTON (AP) — Persons aboard the four-engine C97 transport missing in the Pacific include two men with Ohio relatives, the Pentagon reported.

They are Navy motor mechanic Wayne A. Brown, brother of Joyce A. Dieter, Fostoria, Ohio, and Airman 1-C Allen Bell, 23, son of Mrs. Wardie M. Bell, Norwood, Ohio.

United Appeals Group Will Meet on Thursday

Trustees of Marion County United Appeals will meet Thursday at 8 p.m. in the United Appeals office on S. Main St. Business will include selection of a fund-raising organization to supervise the 1957 United Appeals campaign, Ralph W. Howard, president, announced today.

30 Persons Injured; Roads, Buildings Are Shaken

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A sharp aftershock of Friday's big earthquake series jolted San Francisco and the bay area early today.

A three-alarm fire in midtown San Francisco followed on the heels of the tremor that jolted many residents out of their sleep shortly after midnight. But Asst. Fire Chief Bruno Bassi said the fire "was probably not" caused by the quake.

The aftershock, followed by several less severe, hit at 12:14 a.m. Friday's quakes jolted San Francisco and the bay area, injuring 30 persons and causing minor but widespread damage almost impossible to assess.

Chief Bassi said the first alarm today came eight minutes after the 12:14 shock was reported. He listed the cause officially as "unknown" pending an investigation later today. Fifty persons were routed and three suffered slight injuries in the fire.

Father John Weber, S. J., seismologist at Santa Clara University, said this morning's aftershock had a Richter magnitude of 4.

Friday's tremor was the worst since the disastrous 1906 quake here.

Tall buildings and the great bridge spanning the Golden Gate swayed. In South San Francisco and adjacent Daly City, plate glass windows shattered and supermarket shelves spilled their contents onto floors. Slides blocked parts of State Route 1 along the ocean.

Two Heavy Shocks

That was the result of two rapid-fire heavy shocks at 11:45.20 a.m. Aftershocks continued throughout the afternoon and night. At 11:30 p.m., the seismograph at the University of California — across the bay in Berkeley — had recorded 49. Most of those were so weak their tremors couldn't be felt.

The center of the quakes appeared to be in the Daly City area, populated by more than 30,000 people.

The tremors extended nearly 100 miles eastward to Sacramento and 75 miles southward to Hollister, below San Jose at the base of the San Francisco peninsula.

Schools in southern San Francisco were emptied for the day. At San Jose, 50 miles south of here, plaster fell in the old Santa Clara Courthouse. There the tremor exerted a brief but rolling movement.

Daly City Hit

In Daly City, Police Chief Roland Petrocchi put into effect emergency disaster measures. The chief, at home when the quake hit, said:

"The shock knocked me across the room, broke all the windows in my home and turned the refrigerator upside down."

Policy Group Labels Probe As 'Deceitful'

2 Indicted Officers Deliver Addresses At Secret Meeting

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Policy makers representing 450,000 members of the Teamsters Union Friday night assailed the Senate rackets investigation as "unjust and deceitful."

The charge was leveled by the 49-member Policy Committee of the Teamsters' National Warehouse Division, embracing nearly one-third of the union's 1½ million members. Earlier, behind doors closed to the press, members of the committee and other leaders had heard speeches by two indicted Teamster vice presidents, James R. Hoffa and Frank W. Brewster.

Assails 'Methods'

The Policy Committee, in a statement, condemned what it called "the methods of the McClellan committee in using unsavory and untrustworthy persons as witnesses against our international union without possibility of cross examination or direct reply."

It also "forwarned the labor movement, which to this point has remained largely silent," that other unions will not escape "smear tactics" unless, it said, steps are taken to assure "just and decent procedures" in the committee hearings.

Called Strategy Session

It was the strongest support yet given by union officials to labor leaders involved in the Senate probe.

Union officers called the meeting a routine business session. The Post-Dispatch said, however, it learned the meeting was called to determine what attitude should

To Investigate Cash

Senate's Probers Call For Testimony by Beck

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate rackets investigators said today Teamsters Union cash kept going to Dave Beck even after he was promoted from the union's West Coast boss to its presidency in 1952.

Robert F. Kennedy said this is one of the points that will be brought out when Beck is called to the witness stand Tuesday. Kennedy is chief counsel of the special Senate committee probing alleged racketeering in labor and industry.

Claims Repayment Made

Kennedy said the $270,000-plus which Beck repaid West Coast units of the Teamsters Union starting in 1954, after federal income tax agents began digging into his affairs, is "by no means the end of the picture on Mr. Beck."

Beck, the teamsters' chief, has said he borrowed $300,000 to $400,000 from the union, without interest or security. But he said he has repaid it all. Beck says he borrowed the money before he became Teamsters president 4½ years ago.

Committee investigators testified Friday their study of union records indicates no loans to Beck. They said they found nothing to indicate he got the money or incurred any obligation, except the record of the repayment.

$709,420.14 in Question

The committee Friday wound up, for the time being at least, its hearings on activities of Teamsters officials on the West Coast. During those hearings, which lasted four weeks, the committee heard testimony linking some West Coast officials of the union with alleged efforts to take over vice profits in Portland, Ore.

Committee Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) listed $709,420.14 in Teamster Union funds which he said were either lost, misappropriated, unaccounted for or questionably used. A big part of the total was the loan to Beck.

Local Pastors To Continue Series of Lenten Sermons

Lenten sermon themes Sunday and next week continue series prepared by pastors for the pre-Easter season. All are concerned with the last period of Christ's earthly ministry in which he journeyed steadily toward his sacrificial death on the cross for the salvation of men.

The series are based on such themes as "Personalities of the Passion," "Places of the Passion," "The 'If's' of Christ's Passion," "The Character of Christ," the miracles and others, all giving significant insights into the solemn happenings which so profoundly affected all history and made the new Christian religion a power to be reckoned with for all time. This will be the third Sunday in Lent and next week the fourth week of Lenten midweek services will be observed.

First Church of God

Beginning a series of four special Sunday evening services at First Church of God, the pastor, Rev. Kenneth E. Shook, will base each sermon on one of the Warner Sallman paintings. The story behind the painting will be presented, with the artist's interpretation and the sermon will be based on the text which inspired the artist to paint the picture.

First of these will be "The Head of Christ" and the sermon subject will be, "Meeting Life With Determination." These services are open to the public, it was announced.

Judas, the Traitor

A Sermonette

By REV. THOMAS PAULEY JR.
Pastor of the Kensington Place Church of the Nazarene

Matt. 26:16 "And from that time he sought opportunity to betray him."

A man reporting a tragedy could not ask for a worse one than the one in Holy Writ about Judas Iscariot.

Shakespeare was capable of making bad ones such as Hamlet, King Lear, MacBeth and others, then he vividly portrays characters with noble qualities who failed in spite of them. All these conform to the early idea of tragedy handed down by the Greeks. They believed a tragedy to be "centered around a noble character who failed in spite of his noble aspirations and attributes." This describes Judas, the treasurer of Christ's band.

WERE THE TRUTH completely known of Judas, I believe the following facts would be written. Judas was a likeable individual with a winsome personality. He was handsome and intelligent and was held in high regard by all to whom he ministered. He would have had to, to have held the envied position he held in Christ's group. This apostle of finance was trusted and loved and thus was granted such a position as he held. He had ability as the rest did not. He was once a pillar of the early church and knew the Christ he followed intimately.

The appointment of Judas came as did those of the other 11, after time spent by Jesus in prayer. Thus the choice was a result of consequence of prayer. Jesus had chosen Judas but Judas did not choose Jesus.

The reason Judas failed can be easily seen as the Devil was constantly probing at the innermost recess of his heart and finding his weak spot. Everlastingly Satan tempted and tried him until the chain of his life weakened and broke and Judas' real trouble started.

HE COULD NOT find strength to stand in the face of corrupt temptations. His trouble was twofold.

He became a materialist. He traded money for his best friend, Jesus, worshiped the created rather than the Creator, was slave to the god he made rather than being a servant for God who made him.

He possessed only a form of religion, having a form of godliness but denying the power thereof. Easy it is to have a form, religion of the mind, religion of speech, religion of feelings, religion of habit—all of these are fine but we must have what Judas lacked and that is religion of the heart. Head religion alone is not sufficient.

He was a traitor to Christ. No one loves a traitor, no one desires to work for or to be employed by persons who are "two-faced." Oh! the treachery and remorse of a traitor. This genius of hypocrisy had seemingly deceived everyone but he had not deceived the Christ and His Father. Jesus knew the traitor and he understood his business.

HE COULD HAVE been a spiritual giant but became a deceitful dwarf. He had all in his favor but he failed. He deceived others but in doing so he deceived himself the most. "Honey today—the sting tomorrow."

No one can flirt with sin without being burned and eternally doomed. Jesus wrote the inscription for Judas' epitaph before He died: "It would have been better if this man (Judas) had never been born."

Judas must pay for his sins and pay he did. Suicide for him meant eternal death. This hideous specter could have won, but he lost. Are we genuine or are, we, too, traitors?

Confident Living

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

Don't Let Anyone Pressure You

A friend of mine who has served for many years in the United States Congress once told me about a young Congressman he had been watching. The young man had been under considerable pressure to vote for a particular bill. The bill wasn't a good one, but the pressure by interested persons to support it was great.

Dr. Peale

When the role was called for the vote, my friend heard the younger man vote "yes" on this bad bill. In the cloackroom after that day's session, he asked, "Bill, why did you vote for that bill?"

"Well," the young Congressman admitted, "I know it was wrong."

"Then why did you vote that way?"

"You know I've been under heavy pressure by some influential constituents," was the weak excuse.

"What public man isn't under pressure?" the older man mused. "But where are your inner braces?" he asked. "Remember, son, if you want to make anything out of yourself in politics, you've got to have tough inner supports against such pressure."

I TOLD THIS story recently to a college freshman with whom I'd been asked to talk by his family doctor. He'd had some trouble at college due to his inability to stand up against social pressure, and it was eating away at him until he was actually sick.

I asked him to tell me how he got himself into this trouble and he said, "I joined a fraternity in college. In this fraternity the majority of the boys told me the old morals are dead and they did things I didn't want to do. But I couldn't be a sissy; I had to go along with the boys, didn't I? But I don't like doing those things. I wish I'd never joined a fraternity," he concluded dismally.

"Now, let's get it straight, son," I told him. "I belong to a fraternity also. My own son belongs to one. They aren't all good and they aren't all bad. They're no different than any other human organization. Weak boys and strong ones make up such groups." Then I told him the story about the Congressman.

"LISTEN, BILL," I continued, "let's put this matter up to God, what do you say? Let's do some praying, and I suggest that you ask for forgiveness. If you really come clean, you can walk away from this prayer and be free from the trouble you've gotten yourself into."

He did as suggested and his doctor told me later that the boy was back to normal again. Moreover, his spiritual experience gave him added strength to resist pressure. In fact, he began to demonstrate some constructive leadership among his fraternity brothers, who like and respect him.

Now, I don't know what your private and intimate life is, and of course it's none of my business. But it is God's business and yours, and I do not have to tell you that if you feel badly dissatisfied and unhappy, you ought to take a good, straight objective look at the moral facts of your own life.

Have you guilt feelings as a result of succumbing to pressure? Have you done wrong in your private life, or in your social and business life? If so, pray for forgiveness, and really mean your prayer. Get your moral pattern straightened out. Think right, live right, and you will learn to build up within yourself strength to resist pressure. The reward is a peaceful mind and happier living, and it's worth standing up to pressure to have that.

Remember that great Biblical text: "If ye know these things, happy are ye if ye do them."

Dayton Minister To Lead Services

Coming to Marion Sunday for a series of Gospel studies at the Church of Christ at Main and Farming Sts. is Ray A. Dillard of Dayton, educator, preacher and evangelist. For some time he served the Riverdale Church of Christ in Dayton as minister. He has been dean of boys and recreational director and teacher the last four years at the Fort Hill Christian Youth Camp near Sinking Springs.

In addition to preaching here, he will be available for counseling, Oliver Johnson, minister of the local congregation, announced. The services will continue through April 5.

Each night a special class with marriage and the home as the subject will be conducted from 7 to 7:25 with the public welcome to attend. Time of the regular services will be 7:30. Singing will be directed by local musicians.

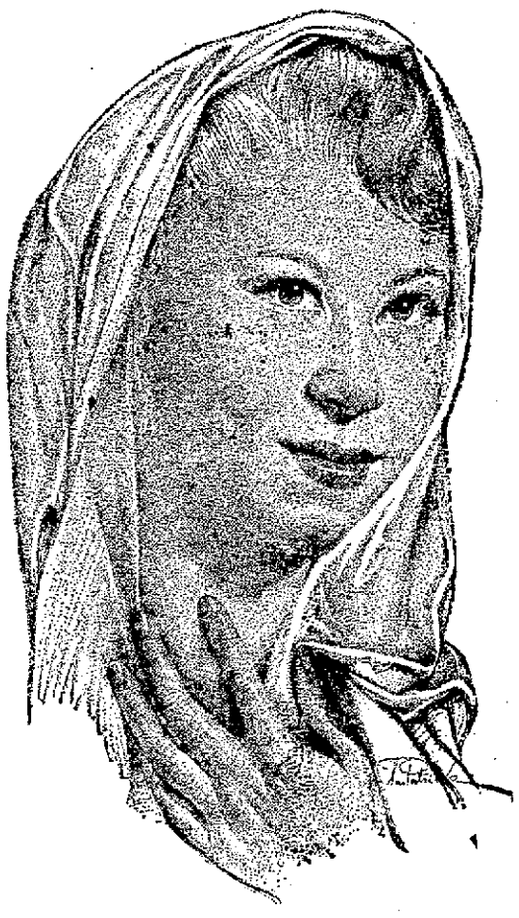
Movie To Be Shown

A moving picture appropriate to the Lenten season, "I Beheld His Glory," in sound and color will be shown at Salem EUB Church Sunday night. It has to do with the meaning of the crucifixion and resurrection of Jesus as seen through the eyes of Cornelius, the centurion. The disciple, Thomas, describes for the soldier the Last Supper and other events which Cornelius himself did not witness to complete the story. The film is feature length and time of the showing will be 7:30.

There are 2,150,000 members of the 4-H Club in the United States.

Jesus Loved Them

By Patrick and Garrison



MARY Sister of Martha

"And she had a sister called Mary, which also sat at Jesus' feet, and heard his word."

—Luke X:39

Mary, the sister of Martha, is sometimes called the Contemplative Mary because of her deep, meditative devotion in the presence of Jesus.

She lived with her sister and her brother Lazarus in Bethany, a village about two miles outside Jerusalem. All three were intimate friends of Jesus who showed a great affection for them, and often visited in their home with His disciples.

When Martha called upon Jesus to rebuke Mary because the latter sat listening to the Master's every word while Martha prepared supper, Jesus explained that Mary had chosen the good part, the "one thing needful."

Six days before the passover, Jesus came to Bethany with His disciples and was, as usual, invited to supper. Present at the table, in addition to Martha and Mary, was Lazarus, whom Jesus had raised from the dead.

Grateful to Jesus for His love, and perhaps sensing that the time of separation was near, Mary expressed her affection and respect in a most dramatic way.

She took "a pound of ointment of spikenard, very costly, and anointed the feet of Jesus, and wiped his feet with her hair: and the house was filled with the odour of the ointment."

Judas Iscariot muttered that this seemed a waste of money that could have been given to the poor. But Jesus silenced him with the words:

"Let her alone: against the day of my burying hath she kept this. For the poor always ye have with you; but me you have not always."

Most Catholic authorities hold that the sinner mentioned in Luke VII:36-50, Mary the sister of Martha, and Mary Magdalene are all the same person.

The Greek Fathers and later Protestant scholars do not agree, but distinguish the three.

As in the case of the James', we can only wish that the Gospel writers had been more explicit in identifying the persons around Jesus.

After the bleakness of winter comes Spring. Fulfilling a promise of long ago, the seasons follow one another in divinely planned succession.

All around us we see evidence that evil prevails throughout the world, but the Church gives positive assurance that God is ever present. As Spring brings new life to nature so God, through the Church, brings more abundant life to human beings.

Consider the daffodil—its freshness and beauty speak of hope. Consider the Church—its steadfast faith reaches out to undergird and strengthen mankind. God creates daffodils without our help, but intelligent cultivation makes them even more beautiful. Likewise, He depends on us to work in His Church, helping to spread its influence, to broadcast its message, to make a better world.

Let us accept this tremendous challenge and become a part of God's Church today.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible, daily.

The Means Test

Behind the bland statement that President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan are talking about British military reductions in Bermuda is the most startling and significant fact of British - American relations.

The means test which the British empire has taken under the compulsion of 20th century events has forced it and Britain's allies to conclude that it must relinquish its once proud role of a major power.

The same test caused France to step down from its major - power position before World War II began. Not only have Britain and France dwindled in their position relative to the United States and the Soviet Union. They have dwindled in comparison with their own status before World War II.

Even if Britain and France could combine their resources, which is the lingering hope that underlies the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, they still would not constitute a major power in manpower and industrial resources.

The British empire is changing from an empire to a voluntary federation of states. The French empire is struggling to hold together what is left of its once far - flung parts.

The United States is growing accustomed to a role of international influence it never wanted to play — a role forced on it by the means test applied to allies which as recently as the beginning of this century rated the United States as a minor power.

President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan are writing history in Bermuda — history already made by events but not previously confirmed by statesmen.

Easter Seal Sale

The annual Easter Seal sale for the support of the crippled is starting in Marion County, and as usual this appeal deserves support.

The Easter Seal sale, sponsored locally by the Marion County Society for Crippled Children and Adults, is a low pressure campaign that nevertheless performs a far-reaching service.

In the last year nearly 18,000 crippled people of all ages have benefited from the Easter Seal program. Seventy-four per cent of the funds raised in Marion County remain here. The rest goes to state and national headquarters for service, educational and research uses.

The success of a seal sale is due in large part in how quickly the recipients send in their donations. Prompt action will contribute materially to the success of the effort and will eliminate the possibility that a potential giver might become a non-participant simply from inertia.

That Was Spring

Nothing is taken away from the glory of spring by a halo of snow on a disconsolate robin, a shivering lamb, or a countryman floundering in the primeval ooze of a barnyard.

Or for that matter a spring bonnet air-borne toward a dirty gutter, a school-age moppet with chattering teeth and a blue-tinged skin and a pedestrian leaning into the wind with his feet anchored in last January's heavy-duty overshoes.

The glory of spring, when you come right down to it, is the adversity encountered and overcome by life — lilac buds frozen stiff, tulip blades encased in sleet, construction gangs mired in muck, displays of grass seed being inspected dourly by wishful thinkers through steamy windows.

It is waiting for the fitful sunlight and struggling for breath in a gust of icy wind. It is knowing more by instinct than by evidence that the vernal equinox is a fact and that when the time comes the component parts of spring will be ready. The robin's eggs will be in the nest, the lamb will be nibbling buttercups and the countryman will be whistling at his plowing.

Not yet, but soon. . .

Plus Exports

The effect of the high-level foreign-aid commission headed by Benjamin F. Fairless on congressional opinion will be exactly what President Eisenhower wanted it to be. Its report will strengthen his hand when he makes recommendations to Congress for continuation of aid.

One aspect of foreign aid, however, will be glossed over in the commission's report, just as it has been glossed over ever since Franklin D Roosevelt started to lease-lend U.S. aid to friendly nations at the beginning of World War II

The declared purpose of aid is to strengthen nations resisting modern Russian imperialism. But the implied purpose is to bring U.S. production to bear on the free world's economy. The bulk of the aid is not given in the form of money but in the form of commodities and manufactured goods.

It has been given and will continue to be given at a rate which makes it a substitute for the foreign trade that foreign countries cannot carry on without being able to balance their purchases here with sales of their export goods in the U.S. market.

Any sudden disruption of the flow of exports abroad made possible by foreign aid would hurt U.S. productivity as much as it would hurt the recipients of the aid.

The Patience Plant

By EUGENE CARR

The calendar says it's Spring. The time is near once again to turn to the yard and garden, clean out the hedgerows and flower beds, and clear away the accumulated debris of Winter. It's time to consider this year's plantings. One which any good homemaker will do well to think about is the Patience-plant.

It's a perennial favorite. It never loses popularity or fails to attract new friends. Its beauty endures from season to season and, actually, its blooms enrich and deepen through the years.

It roots readily and thrives under almost all conditions. Its quality of self-sustainment is remarkable.

THE PATIENCE-PLANT branches freely and blooms for long periods of time. It seems to retain control over the eagerness shown by many other varieties to "get on with the show" and get the whole thing over. It stands calm and serene, seemingly indulgent of its less patient companions. It has an air of expectancy, without excitement.

It grows well outdoors or indoors any time of the year. And it provides a wealth of cuttings for starting new plants. With a minimum of time and effort, its shoots turn into well shaped and liberal specimens. The results are so satisfying, any home or garden will show a splendid improvement. Business places find this planting a desirable addition to the decorative scheme.

ONE OF ITS MOST useful characteristics is that it does well in shady spots and dark places. It survives where other plantings fail, even some which are considered more hardy and durable. Do not be afraid to use it under the most difficult circumstances. It is surprising how it comes through.

It isn't too soon to start, so be sure to give some thought to the Patience-plant Start this Spring, enjoy your plantings outdoors throughout the Summer, then bring them in to add beauty and pleasure to your home next Winter.

Warning: Failure is usually due too much heat. Be sure your plantings get plenty of cool, clean, refreshing air.

Matter of Money

By James Marlow

Cash counts.

Because it does, there should be a point beyond which Egyptian President Nasser can't go—inside or outside Egypt—in creating crises.

For example: How many more times can King Saud of Saudi Arabia let Nasser get him into a mess that costs him money?

So far Nasser's fellow Arabs in the Middle East have stood beside him for several reasons: their common hatred of the Jews of Israel; their own new nationalism; and the realization of the strength in unity.

But to Saud cash counts, and he counts his cash: 300 million dollars a year from American companies for the oil they take from his kingdom.

The power from this money helps keep him on the throne. The money goes to him, not to the Saudi Arabian people.

But Nasser's tactics have cost Saud money. Nasser's seizure of the Suez Canal led to the British-French-Israeli invasion of Egypt and the canal's closing.

Oil tankers from Arabia, no longer able to make the fast trip to the Mediterranean through Suez, have had to take the long trip around Africa.

The canal is still closed. Saud's moral support has been a help to Nasser. but the Egyptian has brought Saud nothing but trouble.

Saud's interests lie more with the West than with Nasser. He needs Western money just as the West needs his oil. The West is his only market.

Russia doesn't need his oil. And getting cozy with the Communists will do him no good. He knows he wouldn't last long if they got a grip on Saudi Arabia.

So although publicly Saud has gone along with Nasser, privately he probably hates him.

Nasser is beginning to push again. He'll no doubt keep on pushing where he can, just short of new explosions.

Trouble is, he can never be sure when he'll push too hard and blow the lid off, causing a new canal closing and even a new Middle Eastern war.

Somewhere along the line of Nasser's pushing, Saud may feel it time to say goodby. Nasser can't stand too many desertions from his Arab neighbors.

The West, particularly the United States, has to have a showdown sometime. It can't go on being Nasser's patsy forever.

One encouragement to Arabs not to go along with Nasser is the new American program of aid — military and economic — meaning dollars — for the Middle East.

But there's also a question of how many new crises, including a new war, the Egyptian people can take.

So far Nasser has been a sheer rabble-rousing opportunist appealing to pan-Arabism, anti-semitism, Arab nationalism, anticolonialism.

But the big gap in all he's done has been the lack of any real social program for the betterment of his own people.

He's given them excitement, a new sense of pride in defying the West, and perhaps even a sense of destiny. But they can't eat those things.

Unless Nasser can give the Egyptians something solid for themselves, the time should come, if he leads them into new disaster, when they're fed up with him.

Nasser may have an ace in the hole: promises of help from Russia if he gets in too deep. He already has tieups with them.

It might explain a lot to know when Nasser began his relations with the Russian Communists: before or after he came to power.

Dear Nephew: We are glad to know you are well and hope we are the same. You never can be sure. Hardly a week goes by that your aunt and I do not hear of some new affliction which could carry us away before we could get a prescription filled.

It was easier to keep your chin up before so much was known about threats to well-being. All you needed to fear then was inflammation of the bowels, inflammation of the chest, inflammation of the extremities, trouble in the head and heart stoppage. That covered everything .

A person could figure his percentages without a form sheet. But each area of the body now has been subdivided like a ranch-home allotment. The poor victim needs a slide rule to estimate his distance from eternity.

It all depends on what particular kind of inflammation or trouble it is. Your percentages may vary from very low through just middling to quite high. Each one has its own form sheet.

But this is a morbid subject and had better be shelved before it makes me look for more symptoms. I heard of an affliction today which could carry me away like a sparrow carries a bit of fluff. I could swear I have had it for years.

Your aunt and I are interested in your ideas about reforming the public school system to give people a longer run for their money but doubt if you will live long enough to see it happen.

There is no doubt about it, though; it would cut down the overhead and step up the results. Where it falls down is in your happy assumption that education is what the majority of people want.

What they want is the satisfaction of being able to say in their later years they went to school, which can be so pleasantly vague no one needs to know what they learned. And while they are going, their parents want the satisfaction of saying the children are "in school."

That is what is wrong with your idea about reserving schools and teachers for students who are interested in education and turning over all others to supervisors and custodians who will train them in non-academic subjects like football, good citizenship, auto-driving and how to put a speroid through a hoop.

It is foolish to demand the same kind of teachers for everybody. It is like hiring Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons to train a horse in a public riding academy. But do not get the idea you are going to change it.

Your aunt and I have been making the usual spring inspection of crocuses, tulips, forsythia and hyacinth. We will give you 10 to 1 that it will be an early spring. By May 15, the furnace season will be over, unless your blood is tired.

Bermuda Talk Soothes Free World

By David Lawrence

This might be described as the era of fretfulness and irritation in democratic countries. Whether it is Britain with her labor troubles and financial strain or America with her public complaining about high taxes and big budgets, the picture would be pleasing to the Kremlin were it not for the fact that Soviet Russia is having her troubles, too.

Lawrence

A well - ordered existence, free from anxiety and sacrifices of the fruits of one's labor, would be welcome everywhere but the facts of modern life — not always understood by peoples generally — point to the danger of a devastating world war.

Because every day's efforts to prevent it are not spectacular nor easy to explain, too many people in the world go on blissfully thinking we can all get back to "normalcy" by merely wishing problems off the slate.

It is not, therefore, to solve in a few days the big thorny questions of the day but to explain each other's viewpoints on current matters that Prime Minister Macmillan of Great Britain and President Eisenhower sat down together at Bermuda.

Immediate solutions of knotty problems that face Britain and America will not come out of such a conference, irrespective of how hopefully the official communiques may be worded.

BY PERSONAL contact, frank discussions are taking place that would require weeks of negotiation through ambassadors. The results will be apparent in the months ahead — for Britain and America will work together.

Britain is in deep trouble — financial, economic, military and political.

An empire has dwindled as colonies have one by one obtained their independence. Manpower that can be summoned in wartime is available in smaller numbers than ever before.

Britain is still a world power and the closest friend America has but "leadership" in global affairs has passed to the United States, on the one hand and the Soviet Union, on the other.

Many citizens of this country are totally unaware of and many are only superficially informed about the responsibility that has been thrust on the United States by the events that have followed the ending of World War II.

Talk is still heard about "all the money spent overseas being wasted," about trying to "buy allies" and about "meddling in foreign countries."

THE STARK FACT is that America has the choice of either letting the Soviet Union achieve a commanding position in Asia and Africa as well as in Europe and the Far East and someday trying to fight alone a combination of Soviet satellites, or else preventing now the penetration of the Communists into the free world.

All this takes money for military purposes and for aid to allies but it could take more money and the lives of millions of Americans as well if a world war breaks out.

It isn't a time, therefore, to indulge in carping criticism, as so many British newspapers have been doing lately

Americans are sympathetic with the plight of Britain and are concerned over the recent decline of the European countries in terms of military potential.

Unquestionably there is still a feeling in London that America let both the British and French down in the Suez affair But the answer lies in waiting for the later acts to unfold rather than in trying to reach conclusions in the middle of the drama.

The United States is moving cautiously in the Middle East but with the economic leverage possessed by this country, there are signs that the abuses of power by Nasser of Egypt can be curbed without involving America or Britain in a shooting war.

Britain needs money. Her military expenses have to be cut because her revenues from overseas trade are being curtailed.

Who will make up the deficit in manpower and weapons?

THEORETICALLY, it's the United States. But actually the American taxpayer will want to be assured that major responsibility for Europe's defense isn't being shifted to America without the manpower burden and costs being equitably shared abroad.

Mr. Macmillan and Mr. Eisenhower are old friends. They talk frankly to each other. But what is needed is some frank talk to the American people and to the British people, respectively, so that attitudes of complacency and demands for more and more benefits along the lines of the "welfare state" will not imperil the national budgets

What's needed above all else today is a clear explanation of why nations that must have "guns" can't have all the "butter" they want, too.

And the proper balance between "guns" and "butter" can come only when blind partisanship and petty feuding are abandoned in all democratic countries in the interest of true patriotism.

Magic Metals of Future

By HENRY LESESNE

CHARLOTTE, N.C.

In an age of wonder drugs, wonder fibers, jet planes, guided missiles and atomic submarines, there are also wonder metals with which the American consumer will soon be familiar.

There's the relative newcomer, titanium, named after the Titans of Greek mythology. It's endowed with twice the strength of aluminum, half the weight of stainless steel and has the tremendously high melting point of 3,272 degrees Fahrenheit.

Titanium exists in abundance; the difficulty is it combines so readily with other elements. But best estimates are 500 million dollars have been invested in titanium resources in the United States since the industry began six years ago.

Then there's another magic metal, just as amazing as titanium, though its qualities are altogether different. It's lithium. As a metal, it's the lightest in the universe, weighing about one-fifth as much as aluminum.

Unlike titanium, it's a very soft metal and can be cut with an ordinary kitchen knife as easily as a slab of cheese. It has a very low melting point. If put in water, it fizzes like soda and soon disappears.

By way of further contrast, while titanium is found over much of the earth, lithium isn't. A narrow strip of land along the border of North Carolina and South Carolina—an area about 25 miles long and two miles wide—holds more than 80 per cent of the U.S. supply. Within this belt, however, the supply of lithium, extracted from spodumene ore, is virtually inexhaustible.

The ore, coming out of the mines in the form of hard rock formations, contains a relatively infinitesimal percentage of lithium. As a lithium plant manager puts it, "for every hundred tons you mine, you have to throw away 99 plus."

Both titanium and lithium have some things in common, however. Discovered a long time ago — titanium in 1789, and lithium in the 1800's — both metals are World War II babies and only in the last few years have taken on commercial box office appeal.

There's been relatively little talk about such metals because non-government or non-military uses have awaited quantity production. High prices, too, have been an obstacle to private use. The government takes the great bulk of all lithium production for such secret projects as the H-bomb.

The pure form of titanium defied isolation until 1940. In 1951 domestic production was a mere 500 tons. By last year sponge production had zoomed to 14,500 tons, and the goal for 1957 is 25,000 tons or better.

It is already being used in one experimental "automobile of the future" and motorists may some day find titanium in their autos. Once the supply problem is overcome, titanium is likely to find its way into a number of other consumer products, from farm machinery to golf clubs.

As for feather-weight lithium, while it is generally known as a vital ingredient in thermonuclear energy, not so well known is its value in high-energy fuels being developed to propel long-range rockets and guided missiles and as a catalyst in the manufacture of synthetic vitamin A.

GRIN AND BEAR IT — By George Lichty

"Most of our day is taken up by calls from television contestants who want to know whether it would pay to continue, or stop! . . ."

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Looking Back at Emmy

In the recent distribution of Emmy awards by TV never did so few win so many . . . There should have been an Emmy for any TV personality who settled for two.

An Emmy is to TV what an Oscar is to the movies, except that it is spread thinner . . . Two programs took 11 awards, one getting a prize for so many in its lineup that we thought it must have used the two-platoon system.

THIS WAS "Requiem for a Heavyweight," a mighty fine TV drama, but watching the ceremonies, we got the opinion the Emmy show was doing a "Requiem for Competitors."

Sid Caesar, his show and his associates took down five Emmies . . . This was two more than Julius Caesar got for all his Roman Empire performances.

ED MURROW got three, and it seems to some TV fans that the networks are making a big mistake if they don't merge "See It Now," "Caesar's Hour" and "Requiem" into one Sunday night spectacular to be called "I Love Emmies."

NOT THAT WE are knocking any winner . . . We just think the fire was too concentrated and should have been scattered so there would be no danger of a government suit against Emmy as a monopoly.

The awards were so concentrated, in fact, that we think at least a hundred losers should now demand equal time.

TWO AWARDS gave us the most kick, the one to Carl Reiner, for the best supporting performance of the year, and the other to Nanette Fabray for the best continuing performance by a comedienne.

Reiner, one of the most versatile actors in the business, plays about every type on the Caesar show and does it to perfection . . . Miss Fabray, a wonder gal in our book, was dropped from the Caesar show early last year with what some people thought was unnecessary roughness and it was great to see her win an Emmy for what could be called "the best continuing performance despite the interruption."

There was considerable groaning in front of TV sets when no mention was made of Jackie Gleason . . . Was he a late scratch?

Not even a whispered reference to Bob Hope . . . Jack Benny, nominated in several categories, won nothing This is mutiny.

We still think Charles Van Doren could lick 'em all.

Certainly the most continuous performance of the times, for nine weeks comprising suspense, mystery and intelligence could go to Charles. With that Nadler lad from St. Louis entitled to a basket of Emmies for the most spectacular performance by any warehouse clerk.

(P S. — And why was there no Emmy for Joe Welch, the Boston attorney and McCarthy hearing star?)

WITH VEEP NIXON, Arthur Godfrey and Ramar of the Jungle all in Africa at the same time there is no use contending that America hasn't gone all out in that area, win, lose or draw.

The only people left on earth who still think the female leg is a novelty seem to be the tabloid photographers.

Jimmy Durante was given a whopping banquet at the Waldorf the other night . . . Few funny men in history have lasted so long, made more friends or maintained such a nonstop record for hilarity beyond the call of duty . . . It was news to us to read that in World War I Jimmy had his own band and regarded himself as a musician rather than a comedian.

The nation's home builders are disturbed about a big drop in demand for new homes and are starting a drive for customers . . . It would be a big spur to public interest if they would agree to put up a house without a curved board in it anywhere and turn out an attractive doorway.

Remember away back when a $50,000 jackpot was regarded as amounting to something more than petty cash?

Daily Worker Rebuked

NEW YORK (AP)—A statement in the Daily Worker appears to indicate that the "liberal" faction in the American Communist Party's national administrative committee had decided that "a sharper ideological struggle" must be waged against "prominent" persons who recently left the party.

This was regarded as an apparent rebuke to the Daily Worker and to the communist literary magazine Mainstream for the comparatively mild way they treated novelist Howard Fast after his recent break with the party.

Two Motorists Hurt in Marion Auto Mishaps

One Injured in Crash At Intersection, Other In One-Car Accident

Two persons were injured in two of four traffic accidents investigated Friday by Marion police. State patrolmen reported two accidents in the county.

Hurt in a collision at W. Columbia St. and Olney Ave. at 2:40 p.m. was Harold G. Greenfield, 67, of 283 E. Walnut St. He was traveling south on Olney Ave. and his car and another driven by Charles E. Holladay, 34, of 131 Plymouth St. collided at the intersection, police reported.

Car Spins Around

Police said the impact spun Mr. Greenfield's car around in the street and slammed it into a utility pole. Both cars were badly damaged, according to the police report.

Mr. Greenfield suffered a possible fractured rib and bruises and was taken to Marion General Hospital for treatment. His condition today is reported to be "fairly good."

The other person injured was Dolaver Slone, 42, of 501 Lime St. He suffered injuries to his head and face in a one-car accident on Silver St. just west of N. Prospect St., police reported.

Car Runs Into Pole

He apparently had attempted to make a left turn from N. Prospect onto Silver St., went too wide up onto a terrace on the north side of Silver St., came down off the terrace and ran straight across the street into a utility pole on the south side, police said.

The accident occurred at 12:20 p.m. Mr. Slone was taken to Marion General Hospital for treatment and was reported in "fairly good" condition today.

A 12-year-old bicyclist escaped injury in a collision with an automobile at W. Fairground and N. Prospect streets at 6:32 p.m. Carl Jenkins of 392 Silver St. told police he was riding west on W. Fairground St. and the car made a left turn in front of him from W. Fairground onto N. Prospect St. Carl also told police the driver of the car did not stop to make a report of the accident.

Boy Falls From Car

A three-year-old boy was injured when he fell out of his father's car this morning in one of two Marion County accidents reported by local patrolmen.

Willard Faffler was taken to Marion General Hospital at 7:30 a.m. today after the back door of the car in which he was riding flew open and he fell onto the pavement, patrolmen said.

The youngster's injuries had not yet been ascertained in full at the time of the report, but it was believed he sustained a broken arm, lacerations of the head and other possible injuries, patrolmen said.

Driver of the eastbound auto and father of the child was Willard Faffler, 28, of near New Bloomington. The mishap occurred on Route 739, four miles west of Marion.

The second accident happened six miles east of Marion on County Road 156 at 9 p.m. Friday when an auto driven by Ethel Beveridge, 45, of near Marion ran off the left side of the road, zigzagged across to the right and rolled over on its left side.

Patrolmen said the auto struck a farm fence owned by Ralph Hensel of near Marion. Moderate damage was done to the car and the driver received a bruised lip and arm but was not treated.

will create difficulties in business transactions with the capital city and other nearby communities that may follow suit.

THE ORDINANCE to adopt a building code previously was discussed by council, but was pushed into the background and has not been considered since early 1956. At that time it proposed the adoption, by reference, of a nationally recognized code. Before council could act on it, other matters such as the traffic survey and the sewer survey came up and the code was temporarily abandoned.

The resolutions of necessity for the improvements of Seminole and Mandana avenues, if adopted, will mean the repaving and construction of curbs and gutters along the two streets to improve their appearance and the overall appearance of the school.

Consideration of such improvements started nearly two years ago and bogged down temporarily in a dispute over who should pay for the improvements. It was later decided the school board and property owners should pay for them with the city paying the cost of intersections and its normal share of the overall cost.

In addition to these pieces of legislation council also will consider others including establishment of vacations for sanitary and service department employes, vacation of two alleys, sewer improvements by special assessment on Henry and Breen streets and the purchase of supplies and materials for the safety and service departments.

Suit Asks $10,142 For Auto Mishap

A suit for $10,142 in damages was filed in Common Pleas Court today by Charles Russell of 669½ W. Center St. against Harold F. McDaniel of 489 Silver St.

The suit is the result of an automobile accident July 22, 1955. The plaintiff alleges that on that date he was a passenger in a car driven by the defendant, and while headed north on Route 4 about four miles north of Marion, the defendant swerved his car to the left side of the highway, colliding with a southbound auto.

The plaintiff alleges he was injured sufficiently to cause his hospitalization as a result of the mishap and charges the defendant with negligence and carelessness.

Eugene Yazel and G. A. Placentino are attorneys for the plaintiff.

Easter Seals Are Sent To Crawford Residents

BUCYRUS — Letters containing Easter seals were mailed this week to nearly 4,000 Crawford County residents by the Crawford County Society for Crippled Children.

Paul E. Downend of Bucyrus, society president, reported that goal of the campaign which ends April 21 is $4,000. Of the campaign receipts, 76 per cent is retained for local service while the balance goes to the state and national crippled children's societies for research, education and service in hospitals, Mr. Downend pointed out.

During the last year, 62 children and adult cases were given service in the county.

Head Cancer Drive

KENTON — Mr. and Mrs. John Snyder of Kenton have been named co-chairmen for the 1957 Hardin County cancer drive. The division committee chairmen have also been named. Mrs. Hamilton E. Hoge, president of the Hardin County Chapter of the American Cancer Society, announced the slogan this year will be "Fight Cancer With a Check-up and a Check." Check."

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — William H. Stewart, 50, Wellsburg, W. Va., died Friday night in a hospital here of injuries suffered Thursday night when struck by a car on a Columbus street. Williams was working on a building job in this area, police said.

Motorists Flee Cars as Quake Rips Highway

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Some San Franciscans had lightning reaction Friday when the earth started moving in the sharpest earthquake since the 1906 disaster.

Dennis Fahey of Edgemar, a seacoast hamlet just south of San Francisco, jumped out of his car and "ran like blazes," when the coast highway started sliding down on him.

"My new car was nearly buried to the windows," when he looked back at what was going on, he said.

Herbert C. Luders of Daly City was driving about three-quarters of a mile north of Edgemar at the same time when the ground started moving and swaying.

"Rocks were falling all over the place," Luders said. "I told my passenger, 'Let's get the hell out of here.' So we started running while the dirt was pouring down and we had to jump over cracks opening in the ground. They got my car out later. It didn't quite go over the cliff but the whole side was pushed in."

Luders was lucky. About 400 yards of State Highway No. 1 at about this point slid down Thornton Bluffs toward the Pacific Ocean.

Arthur and Marguerite Reagan in their home on the southern outskirts of San Francisco caught the full force of the temblor.

"I saw the whole house go shunting askew off its foundation," Regan said.

To a painter in the rigging high above the Golden Gate bridge, the quake "shook me like I was in a tree in a gale."

Said May Miller who was in the top floor of a 3-story frame house in Sausalito just across the bridge from San Francisco: "The quake picked up the house and shook it like a terrier shaking a cat."

Earthquake

Later, after a quick inspection tour of the community, he reported:

"Things are in a hell of a mess out here."

Toppled water healers flooded homes. Dishes jumped from shelves and shattered. Emergency calls went out to householders to shut off gas when some gas lines snapped.

The Red Cross informed San Francisco and suburban officials it was ready with beds, blankets, food and shelter in 88 schools, 44 churches and other large buildings.

20 Scattered Fires

Some of the most spectacular damage was along the normally-placid shores of Lake Merced in Southwest San Francisco. Huge chunks of Lake Merced Blvd., a four-lane highway encircling the lake, tumbled into the water.

There were 20 small but scattered fires. More than 50 alarms were reported but most were false or set off by the quake itself.

Most of the 30 persons injured were bruised or cut by falling, or being thrown against objects. No serious injuries were reported.

But there were plenty of frightened people. The telephone systems were jammed while near panic conditions were reported in various places.

Jolt Tosses Executive Into Secretary's Lap

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Friday's severe earthquake caught Gene Hoffman dictating, and in midstride. He was thrown onto his secretary's lap, then rolled onto the floor.

Just then the telephone rang.

The committee Friday heard testimony behind closed doors from Paul Dorfman, secretary of a Chicago local of the Waste Handlers Union, also heard was Allen Dorfman, Paul's son and an insurance executive. McClellan gave no details of what went on in the closed hearing.

Frank W. Brewster, Beck's successor as chairman of the 11-state Western Conference of Teamsters, finished five days of testimony. He said Friday the money going to Beck went out over his and Beck's signature. Yet he said he was unaware Beck was borrowing the money.

Brewster told of his own borrowing of some $80,000 to $90,000 in Teamsters funds. But he said he paid interest.

Brewster also pleaded innocent Friday to a contempt of Congress indictment stemming from his refusal to answer questions in January at a previous investigation also headed by McClellan.

From Washington, Brewster flew to St. Louis for a conference with national officers of the union's warehouse division. Also present was James R. Hoffa, another Teamsters Union vice president under indictment on charges of bribing a rackets committee lawyer to feed him secrets from committee files. Hoffa has said he is innocent.

Afterward, the warehouse division's policy committee got out a statement charging the committee with being "unjust and deceitful" in its presentation of charges against officials of the Teamsters

Motorist Injured In One of Three Delaware Mishaps

DELAWARE — Minor injuries were sustained in one of the three accidents reported by patrolmen of the Delaware post today.

A Delaware man who attempted to drive his auto while it had a flat tire received bruises and abrasions when the vehicle went out of control and turned over on its left side on Route 257, about two miles north of the Columbus Zoo at 7:20 p.m. Friday.

Patrolmen said the northbound car driven by Robert W. Gaines, 35, first went off the left side of the road and through a guardrail fence before turning over. Moderate damage reportedly was done to the car.

Gaines was treated at Jane Case Hospital and released.

The second mishap investigated occurred on Route 36, two miles west of Delaware at 5 p.m. Friday when a car driven by Ray E. Dennis, 32, of Delaware, struck the back end of a vehicle driven by John G. Penhorwood, 18, of near Delaware.

Both cars were northbound on the highway when the Penhorwood auto slowed to make a left turn, patrolmen said, and the Dennis car struck it in the back end.

Moderate damage reportedly was done to the Dennis auto while the Penhorwood vehicle received only minor damage. Dennis was cited to appear in Delaware Municipal Court at a later date on a charge of failure to stop within assured clear distance.

Minor damage was done to a Marion driver's car after it was forced off Route 23, about eight miles north of Delaware at 1:30 a.m. today by an unidentified vehicle which fled the scene of the accident, patrolmen said.

The northbound auto driven by Clifford L. Eldridge, 28, of 374½ Chestnut St., Marion, was overtaken by the unidentified car which in pulling back to the right lane struck the left side of the Eldridge vehicle and forced it off the right side of the highway.

Before coming to a standstill the car struck a telephone pole and 110 feet of fence, the accident report indicated. The mishap still is under investigation.

BUCYRUS—Three vehicles were involved in one of three accidents investigated by Bucyrus patrolmen Friday.

It occurred on Route 30-N two miles west of Bucyrus at 11:03 p.m. when an auto driven by Gerald Reager, 19, of Bucyrus made a left turn into a private drive as a vehicle driven by Dennis Beebe, 17, of Bucyrus was passing. Two persons were injured.

A tractor - trailer combination driven by Eldon E. Strange, 33, of Harvey, Ill., parked in a restaurant driveway at the left side of the road, was struck by the Beebe car after the collision sent it skidding to the side of the road.

Treated at Hospital

Beebe suffered lacerations of the hand and a passenger in his auto, Sharon Heihlen, 15, of Bucyrus, sustained a bruised nose and possible fractured ankle. They were treated at Bucyrus Hospital and released.

Minor damage was done to the tractor-trailer and the Reager vehicle, patrolmen said, while extensive damage was done to the Beebe auto.

Reager was cited to appear before Mayor J. L. Sullivan of Bucyrus at a later date on a charge of failure to signal a turn.

The two drivers involved in the second accident were arrested on charges of failure to have operator's license, patrolmen said.

The mishap occurred at 2:45 a.m. Friday on Route 98 four miles south of Bucyrus when a southbound car driven by Billy J. Harness, 19, of Bucyrus, was attempting to pass an unidentified vehicle and a following auto driven by John Bennett, 22, of Bucyrus, attempted to pass the Harness car.

Auto Rolls Over

Patrolmen said the two collided with such impact that the Bennett auto skidded several feet down the highway and off the left side to roll over on its top, while the Harness vehicle plowed through a fence at the east side of the road and struck a telephone pole.

Extensive damage was done to both autos. The drivers will appear before Bucyrus Mayor J. L. Sullivan March 30.

A one-lane bridge on Crawofrd County Road 1, just south of Oceola, was the scene of the third accident investigated by patrolmen. The mishap occurred at 2:50 p.m. Friday.

No injuries were sustained when a northbound car driven by Cecil G. Moehrman, 38, of Tiffin, collided with a southbound auto driven by Daryl Bruse, 23, of near Bucyrus at the edge of the bridge, patrolmen said.

Two Boys Held In Theft of Car

One Admits Taking Several Other Autos

An automobile reported stolen Thursday night was recovered Friday afternoon by Marion police and two teenage brothers later taken into custody admitted taking it, police reported today.

The car, owned by Elvin Leonard of 302 Senate St. was taken from beside his home at 7:15 p.m. Thursday. He told police he heard it being started and ran outside in time to see it disappearing down the street. The car was found abandoned at E. Mark St. and Ballentine Ave.

Police said the boys, who are brothers aged 13 and 15, admitted taking the car. The 13-year-old boy also admitted the theft of a number of other cars, including a second one Thursday night. It was owned by Homer Honaker of 233 Tully St. and was taken from the rear of 333 W. Center St. at 9:20 p.m.

Witnesses who followed the car said that they saw a boy get out of it on Cheney Ave., get on a bike and ride off.

Police said today that the 13-year-old told them that he would ride his bike around until he found an unlocked car, would load the bike into the trunk, drive off in the car, later abandon it, get on his bike and ride home.

Postal Savings Abandonment Is Advocated

Postmaster Homer D. Cole said today the Post Office Department is urging Congress to liquidate the Postal Savings System because it has outlived its usefulness.

Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield, the local postal head explained, has urged that Congress approve legislation which would permit liquidation of postal savings in such a way that there would be a minimum of inconvenience to depositors.

Such legislation, which is in line with recommendations of the second Hoover Commission and the Comptroller General of the United States, is now pending in Congress, Postmaster Cole noted.

Pointing out that postal savings deposits have dropped rapidly — from $3,393,000,000 in 1947 to $1,765,000,000 in 1956, with declines continuing at the rate of about $20 million a month — Postmaster Cole said the Post Office Department feels the system "no longer meets today's social conditions and savings habits."

Noting that today nearly all postal savings system depositories are concentrated in post offices in communities which have commercial banks, he added that "today funds are invested with confidence in United States Savings Bonds and in government guaranteed bank and savings and loan deposits."

Locally, postal savings total $638,365 today, compared with $1,500,000 10 years ago.

Lucas Leads Middies Into Title Fray Against Kent

Ayersville, Gratis Cagers Collide for Class A Crown

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Middletown's defending champions, haunted by Friday night's overtime win over Toledo Macomber, and Kent Roosevelt, elated over ousting top rated Cleveland Cathedral Latin in an extra heat, clash tonight for Ohio's Class AA high school basketball crown

The Class A finals in the afternoon send Ayersville (28 1) against Gratis of Preble County (27-1)

For the first time in the 35-year history of the state finals, both Class AA games needed an overtime It was a glorious inaugural for Ohio State's new St. John Arena

Middies Rally

Middletown came from far behind to nip Macomber 70 65, and Kent Roosevelt upset favored Cathedral Latin 62 54 In Class A it was Ayersville 71, Midvale 57, and Gratis 73 Bethel 72

While the teams waited for their climactic contests the talk of the town was Middletown's 6 foot 9 junior, Jerry Lucas, who took his team into the finals for the second straight year, and extended its unprecedented winning streak to 51, practically single handedly

The tall one contributed 46 points, but that's only a part of the story With Middletown out front 14 3 midway in the first period, Lucas scored 27 of Middletown's next 30 points—only to find his team trailing 47 46 going into the final quarter

Macomber boosted its lead to 53-46 in the final session, and it looked as if Coach Paul Walker's castle was crumbling But Lucas took charge again, scoring 10 of the next 11 He scored two baskets after Macomber led 60 53 with 52 seconds remaining That made it 60-57, with 30 seconds to go

Jay Byrd counted another for the Middies, and then fouled Ike Strozier of Macomber, who made it Toledo 61, Middletown 59, with 11 seconds to go Lucas was still 30 feet from the basket and had his back to it, when he took a desperation pass.

Shot Wins Game

He leaped into the air, turned and pushed the ball toward the basket The buzzer sounded before it swished through the net, but it counted and the score was tied

Lucas then canned five more points in the overtime to run Middletown's total to 66, which was enough Macomber could get only to 65 His points made late fields goals by two Middie substitutes superfluous

Macomber thus lost its first and its last game for its only two losses this season

The Cathedral Latin Kent Roosevelt classic was almost as thrilling

The top - ranked Clevelanders winners of 23 straight, broke away to a 22 15 edge at the quarter, but Kent controlling the boards led by 10 points at the half and three quarter marks Then Larry Trunk Cleveland's second string All O star who missed much of the game because of a virus infection got all his four field goals in the final session to tie it at 52 52 and send it into overtime

Win in Overtime

Kent with Ronnie Brown getting seven straight points and Roy Scott adding three free throws smothered Cathedral Latin in the extra heat by 10 2 to take it Kent also won 23 before this one, but dropped two

Dick Toler, 5 foot 9 senior guard, got his only field goal of the game with 35 seconds to go—but it was the clincher as Gratis came from behind to nip Bethel's Cinderella (27 1) team 72 71 in Class A Gratis was behind 21 15 45 36 and 57 56 at the quarter poles but finally tied it at 69 with 3 07 to go

It was tied again at 71 71, and then Charles Clift a substitute scored his only point of the game on a free throw to give Bethel the edge But Toler spoiled Charley's chance to be the hero by canning his clinching two pointer in the closing seconds

Ayersville had little trouble as it handed Midvale its 10th loss in 31 games The Defiance County crossroads schoolboys, a talented and speedy bunch of sharpshooters, led 25 11, 38 19 and 52 39 at the end of the first three quarters and had a 71-47 edge before subs took over to allow Midvale 10 straight points at the finish

Lucas, who set eight tournament scoring records last year as a 15

Won't Pick Fight

Baseball Group Prepared To Defend Present System

BELLEAIR, Fla (AP) — Baseball has set its course — preferring not to pick a fight, but ready to scrap to defend itself against regulatory legislation The next move is up to Congress

It took major league representatives just 90 minutes to reach accord on the strategy as drafted by Commissioner Ford Frick and baseball attorneys in their unprecedented special meeting Friday

"We're not looking for controversy," said Frick following the meeting "And we're not looking for a fight But we are not scared We're not frightened we'll be ready to defend ourselves if we have to"

Frick, American League President Will Harridge, National League Head Warren Giles and George Trautman, president of the National Assn (minor league) were selected to serve as a committee 'to handle any legislative matters on behalf of baseball" in Washington

With three bills pending in Congress (all of which would declare baseball a business subject to anti-trust laws although one would permit some leeway for the game) organized baseball decided its situation is the same as it was five years ago That was when the Supreme Court, while finding baseball a business, ruled that it was not subject to monopoly regulations.

Spartans Fall To Tar Heels In Overtimes

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Can Kansas and Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain crack the 31-game winning streak and fabulous luck of North Carolina's self-termed "team of destiny."

That question will be answered tonight when the nation's No 1 and 2 basketball teams clash in the final of the National Collegiate (NCAA) Basketball Tournament at the Municipal Auditorium

Kansas, although ranked second behind the unbeaten North Carolinians, rules a 3-point favorite

A consolation contest between Friday night's semi-final losers, Michigan State and San Francisco, precedes the championship game

Frank McGuire, coach of North Carolina, is worried about Chamberlain, the beanpole Negro who can reach within 6 inches of the rim of the basket standing flat-footed

"This big boy frightens you the things he can do with the ball," McGuire said

"At any rate we are going to play him normally, and we're going into the game unafraid"

Dick Harp, Kansas Coach, said "It will be our toughest game"

North Carolina's 6 foot 5 Lennie Rosenbluth, was the individual standout and scorer of 31 points in the nerve-jarring victory over Michigan State Chamberlain dumped in 32 points for Kansas

Lopez Insists Chicago's Flag Chances Good

By JOE REICHLER

TAMPA, Fla , (AP) —Al Lopez who beat the New York Yankees only once in six tries with Cleveland, thinks he can do it in his first season as manager of the Chicago White Sox .. . with a little luck

"This is a club that has finished third the last five years" Lopez pointed out, 'so it doesn t need very much to move up and maybe go all the way If some of those kids like Jim Landis Roger Howard, and Earl Battey, who have looked real good up to now, can continue to improve, your chances will be that much better '

Third of a Series

Landis, a 23 year old outfielder has been the hitting sensation of the camp leading the team with a 400 batting average through the first seven games Howard, 25, is a righthanded pitcher who recently was released from the Army In two three inning outings he limited the Yankees to two hits and the Brooklyn Dodgers to one while holding them scoreless Battey, 22, is rugged 200 pound catcher, who has impressed everybody with his hitting and throwing

Strong in Middle

'If down the middle means anything ' said Lopez "and they say it does then we re as strong as anybody in the league With Sherman Lollar behind the plate, our good pitching, Nellie Fox and Luis Aparicio around second and Larry Doby in center field, we yield to nobody on the line from home plate to the flagpole"

Another pleasant surprise this spring has been the fine all around play of Bubba Phillips at third base This was one of the two spots that figured to give Lopez his biggest headache The other is first base where four men are battling it out for the regular job

. Walt Dropo, Ronnie Jackson, Norman Larkin and Jim Marshall

'If Jackson hits" Lopez said he s got it He s young not bad in the field and at 6 7, he s got the size Dropo has been hitting well this spring and he appears to have the edge over the others"

There's no question about Nellie Fox the league s best, at second base, and Luis Aparicio the league's top rookie last year, at shortstop Phillips has the call over Fred Hatfield and Sam Esposito at third base

Doby, Minoso Ready

Doby, who paced the club with 24 home runs and 102 runs batted in, and Minnie Minoso the team s leading hitter (316), have a lock on two thirds of the outfield Landis is pressing veteran Jim Rivera for the regular right field spot Dave Philley and Ron Northey, pinch hitter de luxe, will be the outfield extras

Lopez intends to open the season with 12 pitchers a total that may be reduced to 10 at the May 15 cutdown date He named lefthanders Billy Pierce (20 9), Jack Harshman (15 11) and righthanders Jim Wilson (13 14) and Dick Donovan (12 10) as his big four with Bob Keegan (5-7) and Gerry Staley (8 3) as his spot pitchers Paul LaPalme (2 4), Dixie Howell (5 6), and Ellis Kinder (2 0) will form the bullpen Jim McDonald (0 2) may stick Jim Derrington, a 17 - year - old bonus lefthander from South Gate Calif , must be kept

We've got good pitching," Lopez said, 'maybe not as good as Cleveland s but certainly one of the best staffs in the league We have some problems but nothing that our rookies cannot solve."

His coach, Austrian born Franz Stampfl who coached Roger Bannister to the first four minute mile in history said, 'I am more than happy with this result — this boy next season will do a 3 55 mile

Mike Garcia Handed Loss By New York

Veteran Mike Garcia started for the Indians gave up one run in three innings and was charged with the defeat

The winner was Max Surkont, who held the tribe to three hits in five innings

Cleveland Indians Manager Kerby Farrell thinks he may have found the man to keep the Indians on their toes in the field

"Avila caught on, I guess," Kerby said, commenting on the second baseman s recent performance 'He kept a steady stream of chatter in that game with the Cubs He was the only one in the infield who said anything but at least he kept the others awake'

Ted McGrew, for years a chief scout with the Dodgers, Pirates and Red Sox now scouts for the Milwaukee Braves

Engineer Maintenance Office At Depot To Hold Conference

A special conference on new developments in the Department of Defense will be held at the Marion Engineer Depot Monday through Friday.

The meetings will be held by the Engineer Regional Maintenance Office, which has headquarters at the depot. Meetings will be all-day sessions with two additional night sessions on Tuesday and Thursday.

Serves 7 States

Some 31 members of the office, serving the area which includes Kentucky, Virginia, West Virginia, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware and the military district of Washington, will be present. This is one of seven such districts throughout the United States.

Visitors from the various installations serviced by this organization will be present for some of the sessions. Included among them will be the commanding officer of the Engineer Maintenance Center, Columbus, O., representative of the commanding general of the Second Regional Anti-Aircraft Defense Command, and representative of the engineer, Second U S. Army, Fort George G. Meade, Md., and others from the Columbus Center.

The Engineer Regional Maintenance Office is responsible for the inspection and operability of all engineer equipment throughout the region. Representatives are traveling constantly making inspections of the equipment in the installations. They compile reports, make recommendations and complete the paper work for replacing equipment in need of repairs. The group is under the supervision of William E. Clark.

New Visual Aid

One of the highlights of the meeting will be a demonstration and showing of a new visual aid, prepared and developed by the local group. With the Reserve Act of 1955, which reduced the time for enlistees between the ages of 17½ and 19 to six months, it was necessary to develop some type of training in which enlistees could be taught in six months what would otherwise take years. This project was developed with that thought in mind. The adoption of such training aids could be an immense saving, depot spokesmen said.

Col. T. F. Hoffman, representing the commanding general of the Second Regional Anti-Aircraft Defense Command, will arrive at the depot from Pittsburgh Thursday, traveling by helicopter. It will be the first time anyone has arrived at the depot by such a mode of travel.

Asks Shop Election

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — The United Automobile Workers have asked the National Labor Relations Board for an employe representation election at the Cooldide Corp., it was learned Thursday. Some 135 production and maintenance workers are affected.

Theater Attractions

Following is a summary of the motion pictures that will be presented at theaters in Marion next week.

Palace

"The Teahouse of the August Moon," film production in Cinemascope of the Pulitzer Prize-winning stage success, opens Sunday at the Palace Theater. It will show as a single feature through Saturday.

The comedy, which had a record-breaking run for more than three years, stars Marlon Brando, Glenn Ford, Japanese star Machiko Kyo, Eddie Albert and Paul Ford.

The story is of the experiences of a shy and uncertain Army captain who is given the responsibility of rehabilitating a Korean village and is won over to the native point of view.

Some of the picture was filmed in Japan to create a true atmosphere of the picturesque Korean village of Tobiki, with its inhabitants portrayed by native Japanese actors.

It is Tobiki to which Captain Fisby, played by Glenn Ford, is sent by the colonel of the Army Occupational Team to assist in the recovery and welfare of the impoverished village. Marlon Brando is seen as Sakini, his Okinawan interpreter and general handyman.

Fisby is supposed to run his job by Washington's "Plan B," which calls for the building of a Pentagon - shaped schoolhouse, lectures on democracy, and a general spur to efficiency and American techniques. But the plan tells Fisby nothing about the Oriental way of doing things, such as the public meeting in which he is showered with gifts from the villagers.

The best gift is the geisha girl, Lotus Blossom, played by Machiko Kyo, who proves the first of his many complications. The other ladies of the community resent the unfair competition but this is settled when Fisby agrees to have Lotus Blossom give geisha lessons to the Ladies League for Democratic Action.

Gradually, Fisby, encouraged by Sakini and swayed by the charm of the Oriental way of life, resolves some of the other problems. The proposed schoolhouse gives way to a beautiful teahouse. But when things seem to be nearing perfection doom falls and the colonel descends on the place.

Showing last times tonight is a double feature, "The Great Man," starring Jose Ferrer, Dean Jagger, Keenan Wynn, Julie London, Joanne Gilbert and Ed Wynn, and "Istanbul" with Errol Flynn and Cornell Borchers.

Ohio

"Naked Paradise," an adventure picture filmed entirely in Hawaii in color and starring Richard Denning and Beverly Garland, plus "Flesh and the Spur," a western adventure in color, will be shown Sunday through Wednesday at the Ohio Theater. Starred in the latter are John Agar, Marla English and Touch Connors.

In "Naked Paradise," a toy manufacturer, his Girl Friday and two Bronxite assistants charter the boat of an easy-going adventurer named Duke for the outward purpose of a business - pleasure cruise among the islands of Hawaii. However, their real purpose is to rob the local pineapple plantation owner of his money. To accomplish this, they set the plantation on fire and while the natives fight fire they take the money and the group departs from the island on the boat.

Duke decides to leave when he discovers the truth and the girl leaves with him. But when a storm hits they are forced to return to the island where the toy manufacturer takes them, prisoner.

"Flesh and the Spur" tells the story of two young men and their search for a gang of vicious killers. Fist-fights, shootings, horse-falls and Indian action highlight the story.

Billed in a double horror show for Thursday through Saturday are "Attack of the Crab Monsters" and "Not of This Earth." Both are science - terror adventures with the former starring Richard Garland, Pamela Duncan and Russell Johnson and the latter featuring Paul Birch, Beverly Garland and Morgan Jones.

"Attack of the Crab Monsters" tells the fantastic tale of a scientific expedition studying H-Bomb fallout effects on a remote and mysterious island, and the crunching, devouring attack on them by 25-foot crab monsters. The frightening creatures are biological freaks resulting from sudden dosages of radiation poisoning.

"Not of This Earth" concerns a visitor from another world, bent upon draining mankind's blood, to replace that being lost by people on his own planet. Paul Birch is starred as the evil, invading murderer, Beverly Garland is the nurse who first suspects his evil mission, and Morgan Jones portrays a police officer.

Showing last times tonight as a double feature are "The Wrong Man," Alfred Hitchcock's thriller starring Henry Fonda and Vera Miles, and "The Three Outlaws" with Neville Brand, Alan Hale and Bruce Bennett.

State

"Moby Dick" technicolor film starring Gregory Peck and Richard Basehart, plus "When Gangland Strikes," will be shown Sunday and Monday at the State Theater.

Billed for Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday are "High Society" and "Destination, Big House." The former, in technicolor, stars Frank Sinatra, Bing Crosby and Grace Kelly.

Bud Abbott and Lou Costello are stars of the film, "Dance With Me, Henry" which will be the main attraction of a double bill Friday and Saturday. Also showing will be "The Desperado" with Wayne Morris.

Problem: Split $8.12 Dividend 45,000 Ways

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) —Some 45,000 persons who own a small parcel of Oklahoma land have a dividend coming — but they may not get it.

The Redman Land Co., which sold two - square - inch plots of ground as souvenirs for $2 each, received a check for $8.12 from the State Highway Department Friday.

The money is in payment for right of way along U. S. 281—near Anadarko and represents about 10 per cent of the one-acre plot which the company sold in small chunks.

Firm officials figure the right of way payment comes to about 18-one thousandths of one cent for each of the 45,000 landowners.

Road Aid Okayed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The federal government has agreed to pay $4,599,364 of the total cost of improving 7.3 miles of U. S. 25 and building eight bridges in Auglaize and Allen counties. The Ohio Department of Highways will pay the rest of the estimated $5,302,570 cost.

"CRAB MONSTERS" crawl from a poisoned sea with claws that spread destruction in this scene from "Attack of the Crab Monsters," one of two films in a double horror show which is billed for Thursday through Saturday at the Ohio Theater. The cast is headed by Richard Garland, Pamela Duncan and Russell Johnson.

Cost of Education in Ohio Set At $259.83 Per Pupil in 1956

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Cost of educating Ohio public school students is increasing, Ohio State University's Bureau of Educational Research reported today.

The bureau said the average cost per pupil climbed to $259.83 last year—an increase of $10.58 over the previous year.

Cost averages for all three types of school district—city, exempted village and county—showed an increase in each of the last five years covered by the report.

For Ohio's 138 city school districts, the 1955-56 average expenditure per pupil was $278.17, up $11.61 from the previous year. The eight major city districts averaged $284.27.

Among all Ohio city districts, the expenditures per pupil ranged from $577.15 at St. Bernard to $172.56 at Franklin.

Ohio's 77 exempted village school districts reported an average expenditure per pupil of $237.72 for 1955-56, up $11 for the year. The range was $484.87 at Fairport Harbor to $159.34 at Chesapeake.

In the 88 county school districts, the 1955-56 average expenditure per pupil rose $13.68 over the previous year to a figure of $234.29. The range was from Cuyahoga County's $319.74 to Clermont County's $183.52.

Ohio Fugitive Caught

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP)—A Cincinnati man sought in connection with a $9,000 Hamilton, Ohio, dairy holdup has been arrested by police here. The FBI said 29-year-old Gene Milton Mischke's car was found containing guns, burglar tools and blank checks.

Mischke is charged with forcing Harold Dallman, dairy manager, to open a safe at the Hamilton dairy while Dallman's wife was held hostage Feb. 3.

Raymond L. White, 33, of Middletown, Ohio, pleaded guilty to two armed robbery charges Tuesday in connection with the holdup and was sentenced to indeterminate terms in Ohio Penitentiary.

Duck Has Peg Leg But Doesn't Seem To Give a Quack

BALTIMORE (AP) — Peg Leg Duck, destined by fate to waddle through life on a peg leg, just doesn't seem to give a quack.

And, at that, she's lucky. Without her friend, Manny Sachs, she would have been a dead duck.

Peg, waddling on two perfectly good legs, showed up at Sachs' Reliable Horse Co. several years ago.

An amiable bird, she soon became a permanent boarder at the outfit on Baltimore's northeastern fringe where Sachs buys and sells horses, ponies, poultry and other livestock.

But one day a horse stepped on Peg's foot, crushing it. Gangrene set in.

"I didn't want to destroy her," he said, "so I figured out a way to give her a new leg. After I amputated the gangrenous leg, I wired split clothespins in place and held them firmly with tape, far up on the upper joint."

Peg waddles and swims almost as well as a whole duck. Sachs has to replace her artificial leg every three months as the clothespins wear down.

2 Youths Held

EAST LIVERPOOL, Ohio (AP)—Two 19-year-old youths from North Jackson, Ohio, were bound over to the grand jury Friday after police said they admitted holding up a night clerk at the Hotel Travelers in East Liverpool. Held in lieu of $2,500 bond are Fred W. Shimer and Joseph Lee Meyers.

The two were captured within 10 hours of the robbery. Their getaway car was fired on by Patrolman W. E. Nott, who had been advised of the robbery by night clerk Albert Barnes, 60, one minute after it happened.

British Trial Takes New Turn

Nurse Confesses Giving Unauthorized Injection

LONDON (AP)—A nurse who saw the death of the old lady Dr. John Bodkin Adams is accused of murdering testified today she gave the ailing woman an injection on her own responsibility an hour before she died.

"If you are right and your memory is right," demanded Geoffrey Lawrence, the physician's attorney, "there was a serious breach of duty that night?"

"Yes," replied Nurse Caroline Sylvia Randall.

Describes Final Hours

She described the final hours of Mrs. Edith Alice Morrell to a jury of 10 men and 2 women. Adams, 58-year-old bachelor society doctor, is charged with drugging the rich 81-year-old widow to gain an inheritance under her will. The nurse testified she received 300 pounds ($840) from Mrs. Morrell's will.

At the beginning of the cross-examination Thursday Nurse Randall had testified there was no justification for her earlier accusation at a preliminary hearing that heroin prescribed by Dr. Adams affected Mrs. Morrell adversely.

Justice Sir Patrick Arthur Devlin startled spectators by suddenly asking the prosecutor whether he maintained that drugs administered Mrs. Morrell the night of her death were given "with the intention" of killing her.

Caught by Surprise

Seemingly caught by surprise, Atty. Gen. Sir Reginald Manningham - Buller rose and after a pause replied:

"I must say I do submit that they were given deliberately by Dr. Adams and they accelerated the death of the patient. But I won't elaborate. I adhere to that and my medical evidence will indicate why."

The judge also intervened to ask Nurse Randall:

"Have you got, apart from what was written down, a clear recollection in your mind of her being jerky an hour and a half before she died?"

Her voice choking, the grey-haired nurse replied: "I have and I never want to see anything like it again."

The prosecution had stressed that Mrs. Morrell was in a coma when she was given injections the crown claims killed her in November 1950.

Miss Randall told the defense counsel she did not remember whether she had told the attorney general Mrs. Morrell was in and out of a heavy coma before her death.

"You may take it from me that is what you said," Lawrence said. "Do you want to withdraw it now?"

"I probably meant a heavy sleep," the nurse replied.

She then testified she gave Mrs. Morrell an injection of paraldehyde—a sleeping drug—an hour before the woman died but failed to record it in the case logbook.

Proxy Fight Develops

WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal officials have their eyes on a stockholder battle for control of the Chicago Fairbanks - Morse machinery Corp., Sen. Lausche (D-Ohio) said Friday.

Lausche presided at a closed door session of a Senate banking subcommittee at which Chairman J. Sinclair Armstrong and other officials of the Securities and Exchange Commission presented their latest reports.

"We want to learn what changes are necessary in our security laws as a result of this case," Lausche said.

'Crime Doctor' Is Slain in Tennessee

SHELBYVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A 60-year-old self-styled "crime doctor" who prided himself on forecasting deaths and "keeping down murders," was slain here Friday.

Three hours after Simon Warner was shot five times with a .32 caliber pistol, Alabama police arrested a 40-year-old Negro they said admitted killing Warner because he (Warner) had put a "voodoo hex" on him.

Mose H. Martin of Stevenson, Ala., was charged with first degree murder.

Warner had said on previous occasions he was able to see a killing shaping up months in advance and "I always do all I can to keep it from happening."

Patrolman Durwood Thompson said Martin told him he had paid Warner $60 to cure a stomach ailment but instead Warner had "hexed" him. He said his condition became worse.

Dental Plate Is Still Sole Clue In Killing Case

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Authorities here today considered a dental plate bearing the number "222" their only substantial clue to the identity of a dark - haired girl whose body was found a week ago submerged in nearby darby creek.

After several days of blind-alley questioning of witnesses from Columbus' market district of taverns and grills, sheriff's investigators turned their attention to the dead girl's dental work.

She was found a week ago today, her body stuffed in a sack and wrapped in a bedspread. Four youths fly fishing in the creek near Darbydale found the body. An autopsy indicated she had been dead about two days after she was strangled with a rope wrapped around her neck.

The girl, described as "beautiful and perfectly proportioned," is believed to have been 18 or 19 years old. She was 5 feet 2, weighing about 115 pounds, with short, dark hair.

Diapers Stolen

AMSTERDAM, N. Y. (AP) — Two young thieves snatched a bundle from the front porch of Mrs. Robert Gilston's home and fled in an automobile. Their haul — a bundle of soiled diapers — had been left for the laundryman.

Army Selling Its Carrier Pigeons

FT. MONMOUTH, N. J. (AP) — The vacuum tube is turning 1,000 Army regulars into civilians today.

This Signal Corps headquarters is disposing of that many pigeons —made unemployed by electronic communications systems.

The birds go on sale at $5 a pair, on a first come, first served basis. There is a limit of 10 pairs to a buyer. Interested buyers have written to the Army from every state in the union, Canada and Cuba.

The Signal Corps put a "not for sale" tag on 15 "hero" pigeons. These veterans of combat missions — including "G. I. Joe," "Yank," and "Caesar" — are going to zoos or museums.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

1-A—CARD OF THANKS

IN MEMORY of Harley Bush, who passed away 13 years ago today.
We lost a brother,
With a heart of gold;
Who meant more to us,
Than wealth untold.
Without a farewell he fell asleep
With only memories for us to keep.
We have lost, but God has gained
The best brother the world contained.
Sisters and brother.

1-B—IN MEMORIAMS

IN LOVING memory of George C. Selter who passed away one year ago, March 24, 1956.
He did not know when leaving home
He would no more return,
That he in death so soon would sleep,
And leave us to mourn.
The call was sudden, the shock severe,
Who ever thought such grief was near.
Only those who have lost can tell,
The pain of parting without farewell.
Today as we look at your pictures,
So loving and tender and true,
No wonder our hearts are broken
Thinking dear Dad of you.
Sadly missed by
Wife, Clara E. Selter,
Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Selter and Family.
Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Bunnell and Daughter.

WE WISH to express our sincere thanks to all for all the deeds of kindness shown us during the illness and death of our dear wife and mother, Mrs. Elza Clemmons. Those who contributed flowers, telegrams and cards. Also Elder E. H Mitchell for his comforting message
Rev. W M. Clemmons and Family

4 Found Guilty Of Smuggling Get Jail Terms

NEW YORK (AP)—Guy Vincent, the French husband of actress Betsy Von Furstenberg, and three other men have been imprisoned on their plea of guilty in operating a multi-million-dollar gold smuggling racket.

Vincent, 36, and the blonde actress were married in 1954. They have a 2-year-old daughter.

Others sentenced with Vincent by Federal Judge Thomas F. Murphy were: Joseph J. Boyle, 51, former New York State boxing referee who headed a jewelry manufacturing firm; Cedric Janien, 40, a scrap dealer of Manhattan; and E Ray Trenary, 45, a former bank officer of Interlaken, N. J., and partner of Boyle.

Vincent was given a year in jail; Boyle drew 18 months, and Janien and Trenary six months each.

The sentencings on Wednesday, disclosed Friday, ended a case which started in June 1952, when a 110-pound shipment of gold was confiscated at Idlewild Airport. The gold, worth about $25,000 on the black market, had been destined for Holland.

Trenary and Boyle, both licensed gold buyers, were accused of purchasing six million dollars worth of gold in this country and selling it to Vincent and Janien, who smuggled it out of the country.

All four men pleaded guilty last year to a conspiracy charge.

The government said the defendants bought gold at the then legal price of $35.15 an ounce and resold it at better than double the price in black markets of India, France, Italy and South America.

Experts See Continued High Demand for Homes

Building Activity Strong; Older Houses Selling Well

Continued high demand for homes in Marion and vicinity was predicted today by local builders, real estate men and civic officials.

Both Mayor Gale D. Ireland and Hugh E. Webster, executive secretary of the Marion Chamber of Commerce, point out that new homes are needed here in order to attract workers and new industry.

Mayor Ireland said, "We need a large selection of all types of homes—brick, frame and stone, large and small—in the higher and lower price ranges."

The mayor also cited the need for improving the sewer situation in order to meet the demands of an increasing population which he expects to hit 50,000 or more in the next 10 years. The mayor said the city should encourage the suburban areas near the city limits to annex to the city so these areas may receive city services.

MR. WEBSTER noted that the city cannot secure more homes for industrial workers unless it acts quickly to extend the sewers to serve outlying districts. He warned that not all sewer extensions should go to the southeast, but should go in all directions to serve residential areas and business zones.

Aulton G. Cook, president of the Marion Real Estate Board, predicts a continued high demand for new homes in the Marion area, and an increasing demand for older homes as well.

Merritt O. Williams, president of the Marion Builders Associates, while agreeing that the demand for new homes is high, predicts a slight decline in new housing starts this year because of a present lack of sewered lots and a "tight" federal mortgage policy. He expects a major increase in home building when the local sewer "bottleneck" is broken. He also expressed the hope that when new building sites are opened up new business will be attracted to Marion.

He declared that the demand for bigger homes seems to be growing. He pointed out that people now want larger homes of 1,300 and 1,500 square feet of living space.

Individual home builders in Marion were optimistic about new housing starts.

One builder, who has put up 90 homes in a newly opened addition on the north edge of the city, hopes to erect another 100 there during the coming year.

ANOTHER BUILDER plans to form a new community northeast of Marion near the Municipal Airport. The community will have its own water and sewer system and eventually will have 1,100 developed building lots.

He expects to begin work in the next 60 days with plans to start building a sewage treatment plant concurrently with the start of home building. He hopes to build 50 homes this year and have at least 200 lots developed with homes constructed by individuals or other builders during 1957.

A builder who has been in Marion for the last seven years expects business to remain stable this year. He put up 20 homes last year and expects to erect the same number this season.

Other builders who were contacted expressed the same feeling: business will remain at about the same level as in 1956.

Mr. Williams said that people are demanding more modern conveniences, such as built-in kitchens and family or recreation rooms, along with their larger homes.

He said there should be no major decline in building demands here because of the continually increasing population. In addition, he said, Marion has never "overbuilt" like some cities. There now is a shortage of new homes and of rental units, he declared, and this shortage will continue for some time.

Mr. Williams, too, called for annexation of outlying areas to the city.

Mr. Cook said that the real estate business should do very well this year. He stated, "The demand for new and existing

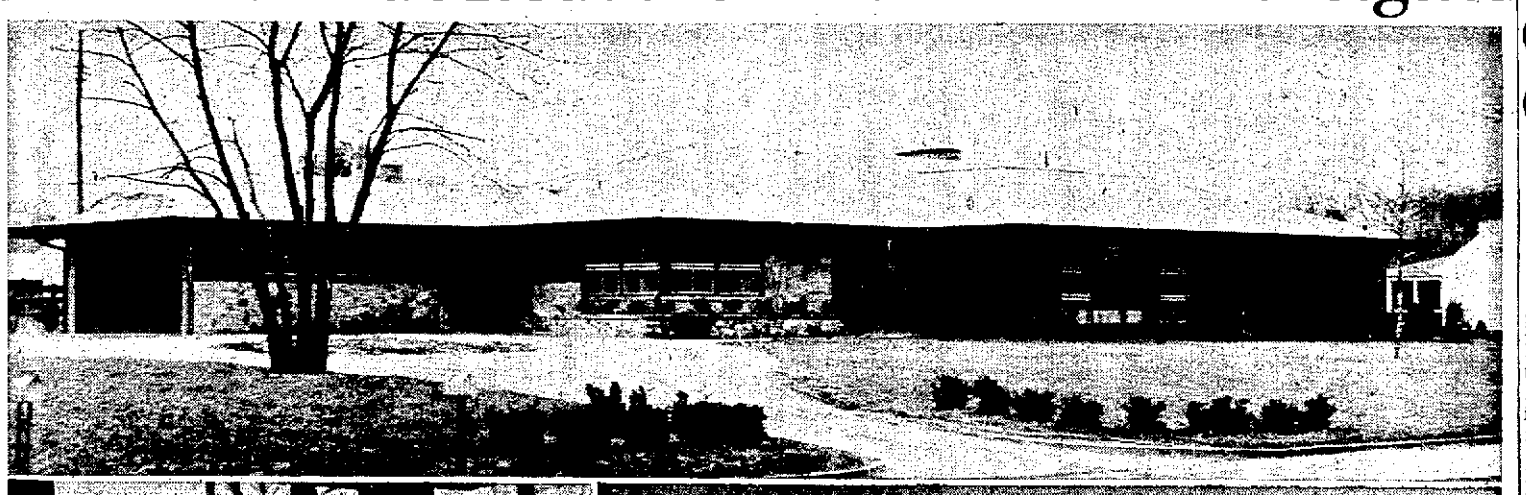
Dreams Made Real in House in Vernon Heights



A SPACIOUS HOME with the latest kitchen conveniences, multiple bathrooms, attractive dining and living areas, ample closet space, a den or recreation room—that is the dream of many Marion couples. This home of Dr. and Mrs. M. M. Weinbaum at 807 Vernon Heights Blvd. might well be the living reality of those dreams. The home has 15 rooms—four bedrooms, three full bathrooms, a powder room, kitchen, breakfast room, dining room, living room, library, den and utility room.

UPPER: The home, as seen from the front, is faced with stone and wood and has an attached double garage to the side and a large picture window facing from the living room. The front door is surrounded by glass.

LOWER RIGHT: Mrs. Weinbaum relaxes on the sofa in the sunken living room of the house. A stone planter divides the room from the hallway leading to the bedrooms. A low-hanging chandelier provides light for the coffee table which centers the room. Reading light is provided by spotlights recessed in the ceiling. The Weinbaum home was designed by architect Leon Seligson. Frank Postell, local contractor, was in charge of the building.

Real Estate, City Building Groups Grow

Both Organizations Gain Members in '56 To Reach New Highs

Two local organizations have grown hand in hand with the building and real estate business in Marion. Last year, building activity reached a record level. It is only fitting that membership in the two groups also should reach new high points.

The two groups are the Marion Real Estate Board and the Marion Building Associates.

116 Members

During the last year, the Real Estate Board grew from 39 broker and 50 salesmen members to its present enrollment of 43 brokers and 73 salesmen members.

The group was formed over 31 years ago in an effort to establish a harmonious understanding between prospective home owners and realtors and to instill a measure of cooperation between real estate brokers.

President of the group this year is Aulton G. Cook, who is serving his first term in office.

A reorganization movement was undertaken by the group in 1949 which resulted in the group renewing its pledge to provide harmonious relations between property owners and brokers, to encourage proper cooperation between broker members and to aid and support all worthy civic improvements.

Members Take Pledge

Members of the board are pledged to maintain a schedule of fees which will be "adequate compensation for services rendered and fair to all parties in question"; oppose all proposed laws or taxation which are or would be unfair to owners of real estate; aid in a promotion of owner-interest in real property, and help improve ethical and legal standards of brokers and salesmen.

Theater Style Lighting Used To Add Drama

Endless Possibilities Offered for Interior Decorating in Home

Want to add "oomph" to a decorative scheme that has grown tiresome? Draw attention to pictures that are going unnoticed? Accent accessories and features of interior design that aren't getting the attention they deserve?

Well, give the home a beauty treatment by imaginative use of light. The director of home lighting for a lamp firm says that endless possibilities for purely decorative illumination exist today as a result of continued research and development by lighting engineers, arthictects, interior designers and fixture manufacturers.

One notable innovation she cites is the adaptation of theater lighting techniques for use in the home. There now is available a compact dimmer unit scaled to fit between the standard studs of a wall. The unit, which has a decorative plate and knob, makes it possible to dim portable lamps, fixtures and even certain types of fluorescent tubes.

A secret of quick and easy decorative face-lifting lies in a new group of pastel tinted light bulbs. The bulbs come in three tints—aqua, candlelight and pink.

A downlight can illuminate a coffee table. A wall of soft colored toughhewn brick, a fireplace wall of craggy masonry or wood paneling, or a wall covered with distinctive wallpaper, all will be enhanced by properly-located lighting units. Planter boxes, bookcases, wall niches containing objects of art, and carefully-designed room dividers also will benefit from decorative lighting.

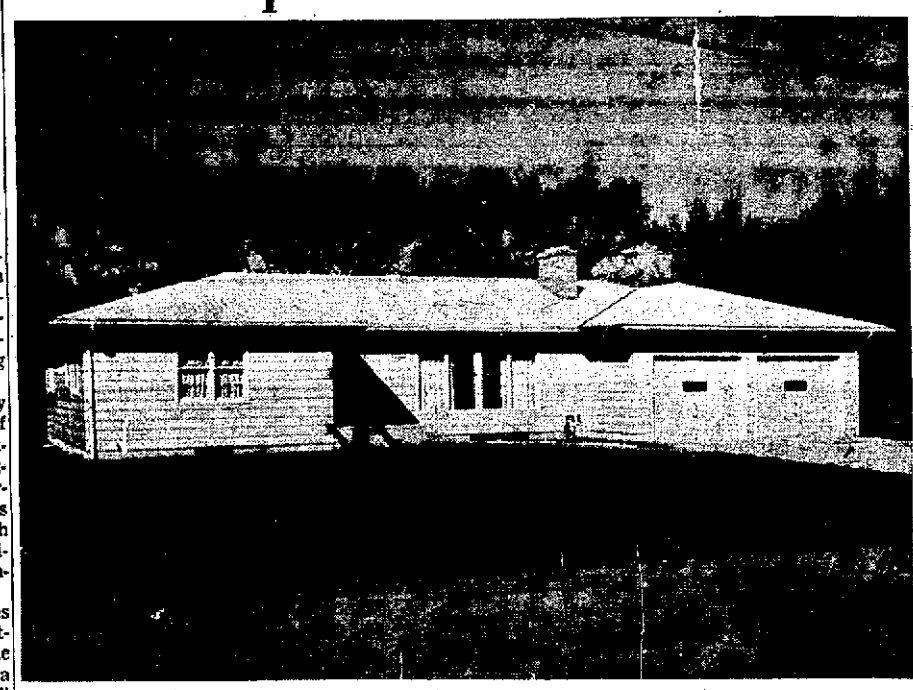
Defending Potatoes

Are potatoes fattening? Ohio State University nutritionists report the high calorie count in potatoes actually comes from addition of butter, margarine or rich gravy. A medium-sized potato and a medium-sized apple have about the same calorie count—100.

Crayon Touch-Up

Children's crayons can be useful in fixing scratches in wood. Rub the proper colored crayon into the scratch so that it blends with the rest of the wood. Smooth the surface and then apply a thinned coat of pure, white shellac.

Two Fireplaces Featured in Home



FEATURED IN THIS recently-completed home at 575 Forest Lawn Dr. are two fireplaces, one in the living room and one in the recreation room in the basement. The home, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Algie, has three bedrooms, one and one-half baths, a living room with dining area, another dining area in the kitchen, full basement and a two-car garage. In the $25,000-$30,000 class, the house was built by J. W. Weaver, local contractor.

Chart Lists Lasting Qualities Of Food Items Kept in Freezer

A beginner in the housekeeping department may have more problems than an anteater in a puddle of molasses. If you have a freezer your food storage problem is whipped. But how long to store an item is another question.

Knowing storage lengths of foods will help you use your freezer to greatest advantage. And it also will keep you from serving spoiled or unappetizing food to your family.

YOUR HOME . . . Today and Tomorrow

By DOUGLAS TUOMEY

The man who takes care of his own property knows that there are many spots in the lawn where grass seems reluctant to grow. Usually this is because the soil is too hard or clayey and will not permit the grass roots to take hold. Fertilizing does no good in these spots, as the same hard and impenetrable surface refuses to absorb the nourishment. Nothing but turning over the ground and breaking it up seems to help.

The tool illustrated is just the ideal gadget for this kind of trouble. It can be used for preparing the surface of the ground for seeding. The area can be a lawn or a bare spot. When compared with the back-breaking task of digging up hard ground, it is a simple implement to use. When it is employed before seeding it permits the seeds to drop into the small holes made in the surface and germinate properly without risk of being blown or washed away. The toughest surface imaginable will be penetrated by the sharp spikes, and by twisting it around slightly, it breaks up any crust.

This implement is made by taking a square piece of two-inch thick plank or board and driving long, heavy, galvanized nails through it so they protrude in the manner of spikes. A second piece of plank is nailed down over the first piece so as to cover the nailheads and keep them from being backed out when the tool is being pounded into the ground. Two plain handles are attached to opposite sides as shown, and the tool is ready for use.

Home Tiling Simplified by New Adhesive

Do-it-yourself jobs with ceramic tile are on the increase now as a result of new adhesives and simplified methods.

Ceramic tile is waterproof, fireproof, colorfast and easily cleaned, and requires no upkeep.

Only adhesives that bear the U.S. Department of Commerce hallmark, "Meeting Commercial Standard Specifications CS 181-52" should be allowed when laying ceramic tile.

To begin you will need the following, in addition to adhesive: a primer for waterproofing the backing, thinner or solvent for cleaning spots of adhesive from tools and from the face of the tiles, a sawtooth trowel for spreading the adhesive, and grout for filling the spaces between wall tiles. A five-pound package of grout is sufficient for 50 to 100 square feet of tile.

Home Loans Relieve Sting Of Repair Bill

Four Plans Outlined To Finance Projects For Improving House

It costs money to keep your house in good repair. But without repair, your house loses value, both as a security and as a place to live.

There are two ways out of this dilemma: Move into a hollow tree trunk; or figure home upkeep as part of the cost of living.

You can accomplish this by a bank loan that can be paid off on a monthly basis without taxing you heavily.

Here are the four principal types of home improvement loans available to you.

1. Conventional Bank Installment Loan. The bank's major concern is that the improvement will substantially protect or improve the basic livability or utility of your home, and that you will receive real value for the cost incurred. Since this loan is made by the banks on their own, and hence is not subject to the regulations of FHA Title I loans, it is generally more flexible with regard to the purpose, the amount and terms of repayment. The interest rate is usually slightly higher.

2. Title I Loan. The Title I plan permits a bank or other qualified lender to advance the money you need under an insurance arrangement with the Federal Housing Administration. The maximum amount that can be borrowed under Title I is $3,500 and the maximum repayment term is five years for loans over $600. The interest charge is generally $5 discount per $100 a year with charges deducted from the amount of the loan at the time the money is borrowed.

3. Open-End Mortgage Loan. If your mortgage contains an "open-end" provision, additional funds on the same mortgage may be available to you for home improvement purposes.

4. Mortgage Refinancing. If you have a conventional rather than open-end mortgage, you may be able to obtain the money you need by retiring the existing mortgage and obtaining another in a new amount. Although this ordinarily involves a new title search, recording and other extra fees, your interest rate will be lower than under Title I or other short-term loans.

Home-improvement projects can also be financed, of course through personal loans obtained from banks, credit unions and small loan companies. However, many state laws limit the size of these loans.

New Ceiling Lamp Is Easy To Install

Pendants Solve Bother Of Moving Fixtures in Changing Lighting

It has always been a woman's prerogative to change her mind—and she often does. Second only to this is the number of times she changes the furniture arrangement in her home.

Living room, dining room, bedroom or foyer—none escape once the whim takes hold. Trouble starts when ceiling fixtures have to be moved, too. One solution to this dilemma is an ingenious ceiling lamp.

A brand new idea in home lighting, these lamps hang from the ceiling but plug into any baseboard outlet just as ordinary table and floor lamps. Since ceiling lamps eliminate all the complications usually involved in hanging ceiling fixtures, they can be installed anywhere and moved easily.

NOT ONLY ARE these innovational ceiling lamps easy to put up, but they furnish the focal-point interest of pendant lighting without permanent wiring or installation.

This is especially important in today's homes and apartments, where ceiling outlets are often lacking. Thus the homeowner can have ceiling lighting wherever she likes it — whether or not the builder has seen fit to provide outlets there.

And she doesn't have to call on hubby to put it up. She can do it herself in a matter of minutes. Small decorative fittings simply screw into the ceiling. A slender, plastic cord runs through the fittings and down the corner or side of the wall to any convenient baseboard outlet. Enough cord is supplied to extend 12 feet into the room.

The lamps have easy up and down adjustability for either wide area or concentrated illumination.

IN A FOYER, dining corner or living room, ceiling lamps provide a dramatic, decorative note to the room decor.

When considering new lighting you should plan it with as much care as you give the selection of your other furnishings. You'll be surprised at how inexpensive it can be, too. No matter what your period of decorating, you'll find a wide selection of fixtures available in the low and medium price range.

In addition to the pull-down ceiling lamp is the ceiling track that lets you attach the fixture at the center ceiling outlet or plug it into a wall or floor outlet and still "travel" it to the exact spot where you need light.

MOBILITY MARKS NEW ceiling lamps like this fluted matchstick version. Easy for attachment to ceiling, the lamp is easily adjustable on walnut rollers. This gives wide area or concentrated illumination.

YOU'LL WANT TO ADD new lighting ideas, too. Cluster fixtures add good light with dramatic decorative effect. There are three cluster fixtures available today in perforated brass, brass and corded rope, and opal glass and brass.

Use these fixtures over a corner table in a sofa - and - chair grouping, over one of the new low dining tables, or in other original ways that make them a decorative part of a room.

Redecorating with light is fun. You'll be amazed at how much more attractive your home will look at night. The entire family will enjoy the home more, too.

Keep Gutters Clean

Attention to little things can mean the difference between a house that is aging and one that stays looking fresh and new.

Your roofs and gutters, for example, will serve you better if you will inspect gutters and downspouts after the leaves have fallen. A second check before next spring heavy rains is double insurance against messy backups.

Octopus-Like Wiring Plans Mean Trouble

Power Output Drops As More 'Tentacles' Are Brought Into Use

Unless something is done pretty quick your electrical home servants will die from lack of juice.

In the average home more and newer appliances have led to octopus wiring systems with countless tentacles to trip up unsuspecting souls. Each tentacle gets weaker as another one is plugged in.

In the last 10 years, Americans have doubled their electricity needs.

4 of 5 Inadequate

The truth is four out of five homes today cannot efficiently use the appliances they have. Worse still, a national wiring concern says, one in 10 homes is sufficiently wired to use new appliances a family plans or wishes to buy.

On an average in each of the 45 million wired homes in the U.S., there are 22 appliances and 11 lamps. These gadgets you've come to take for granted are sucking each other's life blood.

Some homes, in fact, may have 32 appliances in the kitchen, 20 in the dining room, 29 in the living room and 21 in the bedroom.

Because of the inadequate wiring that exists in most homes built prior to 1940, you are getting poor results from your equipment. That is, unless you have been foresighted enough to rewire your home.

Check on Wiring

How can you make a quick check to see if your wiring is as overworked as national electrical associations report?

Your home doesn't have the voltage it needs if your small cooking or heating appliances are slow to heat, cause blackouts when connected or give poor results when instructions have been carefully followed.

Other signs are poor reception of radio or TV when other appliances are in use or motors switched on. Also, if lights dim or a blackout results when a dishwasher or clothes washer shifts to its next cycle, you need more electricity.

In motor-powered home equipment, if the motor "turns over" with difficulty you're in wire trouble.

A national check this year showed 78 to 80 per cent of America's older homes were inadequately wired. About 80 per cent of the newly-built homes had insufficient power.

The simplest answer for the future, though, is to go to your local public utility and ask for a wiring checkup for your home. After this is done, you can ask for bids from electrical contractors to put muscle back into your house wiring.

Gives Special Charm to Home Decoration

Arranging of Flowers Can Be Satisfying Hobby

Gone are the days when you can just plunk a bouquet of tulips into a vase and call it an arrangement. The trend is toward studied bouquets that express mood and feeling.

Even the traditional vase has given way to an assortment of receptacles. Exotic bottles, shallow dishes and even wicker baskets have lent their special charm to a spring bouquet. The key to flower arranging is a little imagination and a basic feeling for color, form and texture.

YOU KNOW, for example, that red, orange and yellow are warm colors; blues and greens are cool, and white is background and relief. You feel instinctively that some shapes have a smooth, carved look—like tulips. Hyacinths are stiff and formal too, but they have a curly texture.

Whether you buy cut flowers in a florist shop or choose pickings from your own garden, some basic equipment is helpful: a sharp knife, chicken wire (from a hardware store; and a needle holder will come in handy. One trick is to softly crush the chicken wire to form little pockets for stems and wedge it into the case.

The needle holders are used for impaling stems in shallow cases. Cut stems on a bias so they will not stand flat on the bottom of the case. Cutting each stem a different length lends variety.

Tulips can be made especially attractive for indoor arrangements. When the blossoms open slightly, a few days after bloom, turn the petals back, inverting the blossoms into a circular open flower. The fascinating colors radiating from the center give an exotic new expression to a traditional shape.

A FEW RULES for arranging tulips and daffodils:

1. Start at the back and work forward on an arrangement.
2. For best results with flowers cut from Dutch bulbs, cut stems clean with sharp knife. Stems are bruised when squeezed between blades of scissors.
3. To harden the stems and keep the blooms firm, wrap the bunch of flowers in newspaper and soak paper and stems in about three inches of water for half an hour. This will straighten and crisp the flowers to make them easy to arrange. Stems can be curved into shape by gently running them between thumb and forefinger.
4. When placing stems in pinholder, be careful to grasp stems at lowest extremity and press into pinholder firmly. This prevents fraying and splitting stem.

Building Permits

Ten building permits with a total valuation of $89,625 were issued at the Marion City Clerk's office in the period from March 15 through 21. They were:

New Construction

G & G Homes, Inc., 755 King Ave., three permits for 12 homes totaling $83,000; one at 754 Central Dr., $7,000; three on Roberts Ave., $21,500 and eight on Fairpark St., $54,500.

Elisha Robins9n Jr. of 326½ Park Blvd., house on Fies Ave., $5,000.

Improvements

Eva Bendle, 615 Lee St., addition to shed, $50.

Wilbur Hughes, 550 Toledo Ave., garage, $600.

Paul Kurz, 379 Commercial St., remodeling at 126 W. Washington St., $400.

J. D. McGraw, 579 Henry St., addition of porch, $125.

Gabriel Spidel, 587 Oak St., garage, $200.

Warren Webster, 329 Park Blvd., garage, $250.

Thieves May Encounter Law Disposing of Loot

DILLWYN, Va. (AP) — Yeggs who robbed a safe may attract some attention if they try to dispose of the loot.

The haul included a set of Cuban coins, several United States two-cent pieces, some nickels thicker than those in use today, a number of large U.S. pennies, 100 Indian head pennies and about 20 very old silver dollars.

C. I. Poole, owner of the general merchandise store which was robbed, valued the odd coin collection at $200.

Scale Models Of Homes Aid With Planning

Planning your garden and landscaping scheme on paper is a good idea. A scale model of your entire lot in full color will give you an even better picture of what to expect.

A model will save time now and regrets later.

Materials are around most households: Cardboard cut on a scale of about one-half inch to the foot, old green towels, felt or art paper for grass and varicolored bits of yarn for flowers and shrubs. Hat pins make good trees; and sandpaper, driveways and patios. A seed catalog will give you an idea of plants and colors.

A scale model of the house is the center of the landscaping scheme and the basis for most of its color. Walls can be made of an old shirtboard folded into a rectangle and set on end. Make the roof by cutting another shirtboard to approximate scale size Fold it slightly down the middle for the right slope.

Crayon-in windows, doors and trim, matching the house colors as carefully as you can. Matching the roof color is particularly important, since a modern trend in color styling is to consider an asphalt shingle roof the key exterior color and to relate other colors of the exterior to it. With your house, driveway and patio in place, fill in the lawn.

Time, Motion Studies Help Homemakers

Heart Group's Tips Trim Housekeeping Chores by 60 Per Cent

Sometimes you can't see the trees for the forest. And if you're a housewife with heart disease, two or three small children and a house to clean, the woods are pretty thick with dishes, diapers and little sleep.

Eight years ago the New York Heart Association turned a buzz saw loose to help cut down the myriad problems such a housewife faces. Its discoveries also aided housewives without physical handicaps.

Kitchen Set Up

Basically, time and motion studies that have made U.S. industry so productive were put to work in the home. A heart kitchen, co-designed by Dr. Lillian Gilbreth of "Cheaper by the Dozen" fame, was set up in New York to simplify kitchen tasks.

Through the American Heart Association, simplification of home duties has moved out of the kitchen into other areas of the house as the program grows nationally.

A housewife, if she follows tips discovered through time and motion studies, can save up to 60 per cent of the time she once spent on a job. And she will not be as tired or strained.

You can follow the heart-saving program by applying these rules to your daily life:

Leave out any part of a job you can; use the best tool for the job.

Make both hands work.

Make one job do the work of two.

And sit down to work when possible.

To eliminate unnecessary details, for example, fold sheets, towels and underwear without ironing. Or combine such a task as setting the table for breakfast while the dinner dishes are being done. A dust cloth in each hand or dust mitts will put your hands to work in a rhythmic and relaxing way. It speeds the job, too.

Industrial Principle

A principle used in the heart kitchen is a familiar one in industry: Storage at point of first use. Although this may seem against the traditional pot and pan arrangement learned from your mother and grandmother, it is logical and saves unnecessary steps and arm movements.

Store things to be used with heat at the stove — canned goods, can openers, seasoning, platters, pot lids.

Supplies and utensils used first with water are grouped near the sink — vegetables that don't need refrigeration, dried fruits and the saucepan to cook them in, knives, strainers, etc.

Also in the kitchen, fitting your work space to easy arm's reach is a key to less strain.

Some women, once they got onto the work simplification, added heart-saving ideas. Turning Junior's wagon into a clothes cart or household supply carrier was one.

Laundry Step Saver

One mother put a laundry basket on wheels in her son's bedroom closet. He soon learned to put his soiled clothes in it. On laundry day she draped clean pillowcases and sheets on the sides and rolled the basket from bed to bed, dumping soiled sheets into the clothes basket and making the beds.

A University of Vermont study using a bed with head and footboards showed a once-around-the-bed routine reduces walking to 23 feet and time to 2¾ minutes.

The simplified bedmaking routine, also set up by Purdue University, is done by making the bottom of the bed first. This means putting on all sheets, blankets and bedspreads at the bottom. The housewife tucks these in, walks up one side of the bed and tucks the bedclothes in, makes the head of the bed and walks down the opposite side to tuck it in.

The Heart Association also has these hints to save worry and physical strain:

1. Avoid worry about things you can't change.
2. Allow yourself enough time to do things so that you need not rush at the last minute.
3. Keep your weight normal.
4. Plan your work so that you do not get overtired or push yourself to get a job done.
5. Avoid lifting, pushing or carrying heavy things.
6. Avoid running up or down stairs.

Illumination Is Essential in 3 Areas

Kitchen, Bath and Shop Need Proper Lighting To Avoid Mishaps

Riddle—What one thing in common is shared by a cake that failed, a nicked chin, and a cock-eyed birdhouse?

Answer—Poor lighting in the kitchen, bathroom and workshop.

According to the American Home Lighting Institute, these three areas of the home, more than any others, require good lighting to let you see what you're doing.

WITHOUT PROPER lighting, the result is often misread recipes, shaving nicks and cuts, and faulty craftsmanship in the workshop. More serious lighting abuses can lead to accidents and hospital bills.

The institute, which represents leading fixture makers, points out that trying to make do with a skimpy ceiling fixture or, worse yet, a bare bulb is often the cause of the trouble.

"Good lighting calls for general fixture light throughout the room, as well as specific light in the areas of specific visual tasks," an AHLI spokesman said.

IN THE KITCHEN, for instance, a large ceiling fixture, either incandescent or fluorescent, lights the entire room and casts needed light to help you see into wall cabinets. In addition, wall or counter fixtures should be provided over the sink, range and work counters. These should generally be mounted 50-58 inches above floor level.

Two important things to watch for in planning kitchen lighting are the color of light and glare protection. Generally, de luxe, cool, white fluorescent is preferred for the kitchen. This light is easy to see by and provides excellent color rendition.

Mirror lighting is most important in the bathroom, since the mirror is where most visual tasks in this room occur. Lights on both sides of the mirror and one above eliminate shadows and simplify shaving and make-up. For general room illumination, don't forget the ceiling fixture.

Other bathroom lighting features should include a waterproof ceiling fixture for the stall shower, if there is one, and a night light to prevent stumbling in the dark hours. For convenience and safety, a wall switch at each entrance to the bathroom should be provided.

A FAR CRY FROM GLOOMY basement workshop is well-lighted hobby area combined with utility room. A fluorescent fixture 4 feet above table spreads even light. Light colored walls increase reflection.

PERHAPS THE poorest - lighted of the three areas is the workshop. This is often situated in a basement corner, with a single bare bulb hanging over the table.

Recommended is a fluorescent fixture, suspended four feet above the worktable. It should extend the length of the table and light every part of it. Such a fixture can easily be hung by the handyman himself.

For added lighting benefits, the walls of the workshop area should be painted a light color to reflect as much light as possible.

In every case, make sure that bulbs and tubes are shielded properly to prevent direct light from striking the eyes. Stylewise, the variety of fixtures available today assures a design to meet every decorating scheme in kitchen, bathroom and workshop.

For closets, the type of light that flicks on when you open the door is a great convenience. Keep the bulb high enough out of the way, so it won't be obscured or broken by clothes or other stored objects.

GOOD LIGHTING outside is not only an important safety feature, but can add a decorative note. General recommendations call for lighting above each doorway, a yard light, garage light and porch light. For beauty, you may want to consider eave lighting and a post light.

From a safety standpoint, avoid the use of any bare bulbs or transparent glass, the institute said. Glare can be eliminated by proper shielding, which also mellows and softens the light.

Finally, you might check all areas of your home where people often go, and make sure adequate light is provided.

Shellac and Wax

Floor wax will go farther if you first seal the wood so it won't absorb the wax. You can do this with a thinned coat of fresh, white shellac.

Moth Damage Is Quite Costly In U.S. Homes

It is estimated housewives spend 500 million hours yearly to prevent moth damage.

But the future looks brighter for housewives. There is a trend for manufacturers to use built - in mothproofing to save apparel, rugs and carpets.

Most anti-moth treatments come after the pests have attacked. And they must be repeated. Built - in mothproofing is a chemical process that is part of the material. And moth and beetle larvae stay out.

Webbing clothes moths usually are found behind lapels and in trouser cuffs. Holes in front or back of woolen suits and coats actually are from black carpet beetle grubs. Woolen blankets with rich nap must be guarded.

Carpet beetle larvae attack upper surfaces in dark areas. So check under heavy pieces of furniture, sideboards and pianos. They also feed on exposed wool loops on the backs of carpets and on exposed wool fibers not covered by jute backing.

To protect woolens, keep clean, store clean in airtight bags. Use moth crystals, if your garments don't have built-in mothproofing.

Getting Most From Appliances Tests Ingenuity of Housewives

Is costly kitchen and laundry room equipment giving full value for your investment? Are various units failing to do their part in saving chores and time?

If the latter is the case, don't blame it on the equipment. It may be a lack of ingenuity on your part. Put your equipment to work for special jobs as well as the ones for which it was intended.

The Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association suggests ways to get the most from your gas appliances. To use a gas range on a more efficient service basis:

Use the broiler instead of the toaster, thus preparing toast wholesale for the entire family. Use the oven for cooking vegetables as well as the roast. Put the vegetables in their own casserole after the roast has been in an hour or so, depending on how long it must cook.

How often do you use your clothes dryer other than for drying the laundry? Try drying your silk lampshades in the dryer after they have been cleaned with mild soapsuds. Use the dryer to freshen velvet trimmings on your hat, the high pile on baby's plush animals after they have been washed or even a velvet dress. (Put the dress in a pillow case first. Baste or pin the case together.)

Wrap your white gloves in a damp terry cloth towel, pinning it so it will remain closed. Dry in clothes dryer.

Even your gas incinerator can be enlisted for extra duty. Have you thought of it to handle such seasonal nuisance as fallen leaves in autumn and broken twigs after a winter storm? In many areas it is against the law to burn them outdoors. Let the incinerator take over for you.

Consult booklets that come with each household appliance on hints for extra mileage.

New Houses Will Often Settle a Little

If your new home seems to have fallen in a hole, relax a little. Your home is just settling. If moderate and evenly distributed, the result is not likely to be much more than a few loosened nails or a crack here or there in a wall or floor.

Some shrinkage also is expected. Lumber for the house frame, containing some moisture from being stored outdoors, dries out in the warm house and shrinks accordingly. This may cause some sticking of doors and windows and some cracks in the plaster. If there is a problem with any of the doors, plane or sandpaper to restore normal operation. The windows can be lubricated with graphite.

Home's Recreation Room Is Popular

A RECREATION ROOM is one place in almost every home which will receive a good deal of use, especially when there are a number of children or grandchildren. This recreation room, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Granger of 998 Bexley Ave., is one of the outstanding features of the house, which was constructed by C. A. Haines, local contractor. Using the room for various activities are their grandchildren (left to right): Jan and Jeanne, 9, Jimmy, 3, Sue, 11, Mike, 7, and Chris, 4. They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Granger.

Carpeting and Acoustical Tile Can Help Trim Excess Sound

Listen. Would you be able to hear a pin drop in your home right now? For that matter, could you hear a monkey wrench drop?

Noise in the home is an ever-growing problem. Many psychologists agree it is helping to keep "calm-down" pills on best selling lists.

Recognizing the menace, Practical Builder magazine, a light construction industry publication, had specialists study noise in the home.

In a series of five articles they outlined not only sources of noise, but how builders, home modernizers and the homeowner can "sound condition" houses.

The sources, states the magazine, are our gadgets of comfort and convenience — washer, dryers, mixers, television, dishwashers, furances, ventilating fans, shower baths, record players and air conditioners.

Other sources of noise are children playing, inside and out, airplanes and passing automobiles and trucks. Homes are closer together, too, and neighbors share each others' noises.

Without extensive remodeling, Practical Builder says, noise can be foiled within a room by sound-absorbing materials: Acoustical tile on ceiling, wall-to-wall carpeting, heavy draperies, rubber or cork floor tile.

These materials, however, are relatively ineffective in keeping sounds from passing into other rooms.

For this, a solid sound barrier is needed. The most effective is solid masonry. Since this isn't practical for interior partitions, conventional lath and plaster walls can be sound-conditioned with a new layer of plaster on one or both sides. A row of closets along one wall is another effective method of reducing the passage of sound from one room to another.

Major Decorating Factor

Small Rug Popular on Waxed Floor

Don't look down on your floor when you make the decorative plan for your room.

Today the floor has come into its own as a major decoration factor. If given indifferent treatment it can turn an otherwise successful scheme into one that just doesn't come off.

According to Edward Fields, rug stylist and manufacturer, the standard monotone carpet adds little interest to a room.

"Floors," says Mr. Fields, "should command attention. The well waxed, well kept floor was the hallmark of distinction in another era with large sums of money spent for intricately laid parquet floors. These floors were constantly waxed to develop a beautiful patina.

"Then, somehow, the wall-to-wall carpet became popular and householders forgot how effective a handsome area rug on a well polished floor can be. I am happy to say that once again the smaller rug and the polished floor have come into their own."

Entries received in a recent Kentucky Soft Spun rug yarn contest reveal that men and boys of all ages are turning out colorful handmade rugs. Husband-and-wife "teams", cub scouts and war veterans are finding rug-making a satisfying, and often a lucrative hobby.

Unlike most hobbies, rug-making offers a wide range of techniques. You have a choice of crocheting (probably the most generally popular method), hooking, weaving, cross-stitching, braiding or tufting.

Regardless of technique, however, the success of your finished rug depends in large part on the yarn. A quality rug yarn need not be expensive.

WITH THE NEW crop of 1957 carpets, it is easier than ever before to decorate a room that is very truly yours. Happilly, carpet and fabric manufacturers are planning colors together, so that matching and coordination becomes a simple matter.

News lies in the use of bulkier yarns and ingenious weave techniques for a carpet with the character of treasured handicraft, but with the modest price tag that goes with American power-loomed products.

A new idea in two-level carpet shows creative thinking. Different yarn fibers are used for the high and low levels. For instance, one design requiring white for decorative effect confines this light shade to the lower level. The darker color on top takes the brunt of traffic. In blends, resilient wool forms the top level in one design to give the greatest comfort underfoot. Less expensive rayon lends its color sparkle deep inside the pattern.

CAPSULE BUYING advice: The more "goods" in a carpet — in other words, the denser it is—the better it will wear over the years. Watch "bargain" carpets to make sure you are getting enough "goods" for your money. Rely on a reputable dealer and a recognized brand name to be sure of your product.

Building

He said homes in good condition will bring good prices on today's market and even homes in poorer condition can be sold at a fair price because of the high demand for housing.

Both Mr. Williams and Mayor Ireland said the city would be helped greatly by the building of the proposed new swimming pool, for it would provide an added incentive for workers to make their homes in Marion.

Golfing Motif

Don't throw old golf clubs away. Cleaned and attached to an appropriate base, the club heads make fine book-ends. For an easy to clean, attractive finish, use shellac.

Cigar Etiquette

Making Shine Last

WRONG NUMBER

DAYTON, O. (AP)—The Ohio Highway Patrol post here seems to be getting calls from areas out of its jurisdiction. Technicians say it is probably because of sun spots, but the radio dispatcher has been receiving radio telegraph signals believed to be originating in Spain or Italy.

The local group is a member of the National Real Estate Board and of the Ohio Association of Real Estate Boards.

Other officers serving with Mr. Cook are: Harry F. Kaelber, vice president; Lowell Douce, secretary and treasurer; Warren Pittinger, vice president for District No. 3 of Ohio Association of Real Estate Boards, and Clifford O. Stetson, Wilson Jones, Mr. Kaelber, G. E. Speese, Cover Rinehart, Clark Metz and Alonzo W. Granger, trustees.

Membership in the group is made up of persons directly and indirectly concerned with the building profession. A large number of the members are bankers who deal with the builders in arranging loans and home financing.

The group was formed in 1955 to bring together those persons interested in any of the many phases of building activity, whether residential or commercial.

The organization operates on a non-profit basis and is pledged to promote worthwhile public projects for the best interest of the community and to cooperate with other local organizations to accomplish related purposes.

President of the organization this year is Merritt O. Williams. His staff of officers includes: James W. Weaver, vice president; Robert F. Kelly, secretary; Francis M. Warwick, treasurer, and J. C. Ballinger, C. A. Haines, Walter Larson, Carrol E. Lockwood, Harold Seiter, Charles F. Cocherl and Thad Postell, trustees.

Drying Lamp Shades

INMATES PARTICIPAE

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Warden Robert A. Heinze says 250 of the 2,325 inmates at Folsom Prison are participating in the Alcoholics Anonymous program. Prisoners are visited weekly by 10 outside groups on a rotation basis.

New Home Has All-Electric Kitchen

3 Remedies Suggested To Fix Squeaky Floors

Three suggested solutions are these: You can apply glue if you can reach the underside of the flooring board. Liquid glue may be applied in the joint with an eye dropper.

If the squeak is located near a beam, you can fix this by driving a finishing nail in on an angle. Then fill the nail hole with putty.

Graphite, a lubricant, also may be forced into the floor joints or along the edge of the board. This often will do the necessary quieting job.

Fixing Leaky Roofs

Tips on Home Repairs

By ANDREW C. LANG
Associated Press Staff Writer

DO . . . repair small cracks in roll roofing on flat roofs with a generous application of asphalt cement. When an entire section needs replacing, cut the patch of roll roofing considerably larger than the damaged area, nail around the edges with rust-proof nails and cover the joints with asphalt cement.

DO . . . fix a cracked wooden shingle by driving a piece of copper sheeting under it and driving a second piece of copper under the shingle directly above.

DON'T . . . if doing any extensive roof repairing, overlook the use of a shingle hook, a flat piece of steel that fits under a shingle and hooks over a nail head.

DON'T . . . forget that, in making any repairs to the flashing on a roof valley, the important thing is that water running down the valley must be able to flow freely over the patch without interruption.

DON'T . . . try to make repairs on a roof that obviously has outlived its usefulness, otherwise new leaks will be occurring again and again, making you regretful that you didn't have a new roof installed in the first place.

Sanding, Shellac Will Free Drawer

Care of Dishwasher Hikes Efficiency

Appliance Used Wisely Saves Time, Trouble For Homemakers

Automatic dishwashers are work saving appliances. And each year manufacturers perfect them to be more time and labor saving.

NEW LOADING OF DISHWASHER is both safe and sanitary. Silver is placed in rack designed to simplify loading with handles up. Homemakers avoid punched palms from protruding prongs or knife blades.

Linoleum, Cork Are Durable, Make Good Floor Coverings

The quiet comfort of cork gives years of wear. Linoleum in tile or by-the-yard and rubber also will be good in living or dining room. All are easy to clean and have good resistance to indentation from furniture.

Kitchen — The main desires here are coverings with resistance to staining, easy to maintain, long wearing and beautiful. Time-proven inlaid linoleum, such as Gold Seal inlaids, either by the yard or in handy tile form, is still the favorite kitchen floor covering. It is quiet and comfortable underfoot.

Since World War II plastic floor coverings have become very popular as they are highly resistant to staining from acids, oils, grease, solvents or soaps.

Playroom or work shop — You need a floor able to take punishment yet still look attractive after hard wear. Vinyl asbestos tile will stand up exteremely well. It is easy to maintain, highly resistant to soiling even from grease and oil, and is available in bright, clear colors that won't fade.

A second choice for playrooms or workshops might be asphalt tile, but it should be avoided in areas exposed to grease or oils. Both of these materials may be used in basement areas.

Bedroom — This room calls for quiet and warmth and you will find cork, linoleum and rubber all good here.

Bathroom — You can use almost any product but because baths are usually small, one wants a luxurious looking floor. In this instance rubber tile would be an excellent choice. Easy to keep, its resistance to alkalies and soaps makes it ideal.

Use Hot Suds

Merely swishing water over plastic food-storage containers keeps bacteria hopping with joy. Clean them with hot suds—as hot as your hands can stand. Don't soak, however, as this may soften or damage the plastic container.

Heat Vital to Plastics

Plastics come in the hot or cold variety. In more technical terms, household plastics are divided in two major groups, the heat-sensitive (or thermoplastic) and the heat-resistant (or thermoset).

In cleaning it is good to know with which you are dealing. Those that are thermopolastic lose their shape or finish when exposed to heat or very hot water. Use lukewarm water.

Good Decoration Pays Dividends

Renovation Can Hike Value of Home

In 1956 more than a million homes were built. A national survey showed that for every new home put on the market, there were two "old" homes sold. In fact sale of used homes was up 35 per cent over 1955 sales.

But for every one million permanent homes built each year, 200,000 persons take to living on wheels. Nearly 3 million Americans have mobile homes some with air conditioning, TV, automatic dishwashers, garbage disposals, wall - to - wall carpeting, picture windows and stall showers.

MANY WOULD rather remodel than build because: Used homes probably are near places of employment; are in built-up communities and have schools, parks, finished streets and sidewalks.

Decorating may be the key to your home headaches. Studies now show your home can depress you if it has wrong colors, poor arrangement of furnishings, wrong selection of items that don't fit you.

WHETHER YOU buy to remodel or to build your most expensive rooms will be the kitchen and bathrooms.

A 9x10 kitchen, fully equipped, costs about $1,750 or $19.50 a square foot. A 7 x 8 bathroom, fully equipped, costs about $2,000 or $35 a square foot.

Renter or owner, you have a mutual problem—how to furnish or dress up your home.

Interior decorators say the average man or woman needs more courage in decorating a home. Be brave and express yourself to make your house a home, they say.

IF YOU WANT to add a lift to an old room, they'll tell you in their literature how to apply plastics to your wall, floor or table top. Or they'll tell you how to lower a high ceiling with a coat of dark paint. This darkened ceiling method also may be used to hide ugly pipes in a basement recreation room.

Pushed by heart experts and weary housewives, companies are marketing washable wall coverings in stylish textured designs. Floor coverings with new fibers are said to resist dirt more. Use of high and low loops in carpets and rugs add detail while combating wear and tear. Some new curtains withstand deterioration from sunlight and industrial gases.

Kitchen appliances with a squared look are designed to fit homes already styled for built-ins. On a budget, you can buy a single free - standing kitchen appliance. The new squared look fits snugly into your built-in setup. Many manufacturers offer these units in their full line, from most to least expensive.

THE INDUSTRY is wooing housewives by solving space problems. This is done with (a) ovens built into the wall, (b) stacked washer and dryer units, (c) combined refrigeration and freezer units, (d) surface cooking units. Compactness is the key.

Biggest problem facing many in homes dating to the early 1940s is inadequate wiring. More and more electrical home aids suck at your power. Better check your wiring to see you get peak performance from equipment. Your local utility probably can help you do this or see an electrical contractor for wiring advice.

Keeping your home in repair is just as important as putting new appliances and furniture in it. It adds value to your home.

Own Opinions Key to Proper Decor of Home

Arrange Furniture, Use Ideas To Serve Your Way of Life

Style—color—design. These are three major stumbling blocks for most homemakers with interior decorating aspirations. What reasons lie behind their tendency to indecision, and often, wrong decision in decorating a home?

Decorator William Pahlmann, has some theories. The primary responsibility of any decorator, he feels, is to help the homemaker stand on her own feet and make her own decisions with confidence.

"People can be so afraid of making a mistake that they make the biggest mistake of all," he laments, "they don't express themselves."

Confidence Is Keynote

Keep these in mind:

Know yourself. Know your own personal preferences, know your financial limitations, and know your needs. As in everything else, adopt the style to your nature and your way of life.

Most rooms best labelled stylish or tasteful are so primarily because they answer the inhabitants' needs to the greatest degree. It's as simple as that.

Take, for example, the commonplace problem of furniture arrangement. The first thing to be considered here is the traffic pattern. There's no reason to make your entrances, exits and progress through a room difficult.

Pahlmann also offers homemakers a few representative tips:

"At certain times of the day, rooms require different lighting aspects. An air of mystery and romance may invade a room at dusk when it is plain vanilla in the morning. Lighting can create this impression. There are two requirements for good lighting: 1. plenty of light and 2. workable control.

Make Use of Window

"If you have a picture window, be sure you relate your furniture arrangement to the view and your own use. Try to place something in front of your picture window that is a little more functional than the usual footless table and lamp.

"Keep air around areas and furniture groups for freedom of movement and also for the looks. This 'air' is like the white space on a page. It dramatizes everything else."

Little Touches Bring Spring to Home

Change in Bedspreads, New Curtains Can Add Brightness

Time for a spring change. Change the oil in the family car, don a straw bonnet, off with snowsuits and galoshes. A home needs a change, too, and nowhere is it more welcome than in the bedroom.

AN EASY AND inexpensive way to achieve a fresh look is to change bedspreads and a few accessories and perhaps draperies for crisp curtains. Scatter rugs in practical winter colors can be replaced by rugs in cool pastels.

Bedspreads made with rayon fibers launder easily at low temperature in a home machine. Because the rayon tufts are free of lint, there is no worry about the machine becoming clogged. If spreads are to be stored over the summer, they need not be ironed. Merely fold and slip into a clear plastic bag where each spread can be readily identified in the fall.

ANOTHER HINT, waxing furniture during a major cleaning makes dusting quick and easy for months to come. Never allow a damp cloth to lay on a wood surface. Also, spilled medicine and cosmetics are less likelty to stain painted shelves in the bathroom cabinet if surfaces have been waxed. Fingerprints also are avoided by waxing surfaces such as door knobs, telephones, light fixtures.

To make storage easy, it is a good plan to put all knick-knacks from one room together in a box and label "bedroom," "living room," etc. Polish silver, copper or brass. Either place in non-tarnish silver bags or wrap with clear plastic film.

SPRING BRINGS new look to bedroom. Change is made in color and materials of coverlet and bedside scatter rugs. This white coverlet has pink roses with dust ruffle in mint green, a shift from the warm, heavier winter tones.

Decorative Hobby

Growing Herbs Indoors Is a Rewarding Pastime

Make your kitchen a "many splendored thing" by growing fresh herbs at the window. They will not only prove to be a decorative asset in the kitchen but an exciting incentive to unusual cookery as well.

If you're budget-wise, you will start your herbs from seed during the summer and transplant them into the house. It's possible, too, to start herb seeds indoors under lights, either incandescent or fluorescent, or at a cool, sunny window.

When doing this, it's best to use alkaline soil and plant one to five seeds to a pot. As the plants grow they should be thinned so only the strongest plants remain. It will not be possible to do much indoor transplanting.

Annual herbs such as sweet marjoram, parsley and various kinds of basil and coriander are easy to grow from seed. Of course the proficient gardener can grow all kinds of herbs, annuals or perennials, from seeds.

1. Use with a light hand as the aromatic oils are strong.
2. Cut or chop the leaves of fresh herbs very fine.
3. Remember that dried herbs are three or four times stronger than fresh herbs.
4. The delicate aroma and flavor of savory herbs will be lost by extended cooking.
5. The best way to draw out the flavor of herbs is to blend or heat with butter, margarine or other cooking fats.
6. Salad oil should be tepid, not chilled, when using herbs in French dressing.

Cleaning Plastic

A heavily soiled plastic article may be soaked in warm suds a few minutes. Rubbing the dirty areas with a sponge or cloth will complete the job. Air-dry the article after a rinse in clear warm water.

Incinerators Grow

Many cities are urging citizens to install incinerators and household garbage disposers because of increasing hauling, dumping and filling costs and less availability of dump land.

Little Flaws Can Sway Residential Inspectors

Associated Press Staff Writer

Federal Housing Administration inspectors have many ways of determining the quality of work done by home builders. Some of them are much too technical to be used with any advantage by the average prospective house purchaser But others have a definite value in an over-all appraisal of a new home

If an FHA inspector notes, for instance, that there are hammer marks, chipped edges and unset nails on the trim, he regards it as evidence of careless workmanship If the hardware is neatly and accurately installed, the wallpaper carefully butted and matched, the paint with no brush marks or drips he knows that the job has been done with care and pride

These are seemingly small matters in construction work And they would be useless without the more precise tests necessary for judging quality Yet it is surprising how often the impression gained from observation of these little things is borne out by the kind of work done in the more important construction features of the same house

Stapler in Homes

The stapler has moved from the office to the construction industry to the home Its story gives further evidence that the manufacturer often follows the lead of his own products.

Staplers once were made primarily for the office When carpenters and roofers began to make some use of them, heavyduty staplers had to be turned out for such jobs as installing insulation and sheathing, fastening shingles to roofs and attaching ceiling tiles, to mention just a few

Then the home handyman began to find staplers useful for fastening screening to frames, repairing window shades, attaching upholstery, while the lady of the house discovered they could be used for tacking shelf paper, fastening lunch bags and dozens of other things

The use of staplers in the home has become so popular that the world's largest manufacturer of these machines is putting out one designed exclusively for the home It comes with a bracket which can be mounted to the wall, so that it can be used either mounted or detached

Broom Still in Use

Despite the galaxy of modern cleaning implements on the market, the broom is still being used extensively by housewives And do you know why? Here's why, according to Social Research Inc

"Brooms symbolize an aggressive approach to dirt, and sweeping involves many assertive aspects"

The insulation of concrete block buildings and foundations has been made easier with the use of perlite, an extremely light material made of a volcanic lava substance that has been crushed and then popped" under heat like popcorn It weighs less than one-tenth as much as sand, is pure white and is poured directly from bags into the cores of the concrete blocks

Perlite is stocked by building supply dealers under various brand names It is said to be rotproof resistant to settling and not structurally affected by water

12 Million Power Mowers

Nearly 12 million power lawn mowers were used by American home owners in 1956 Three million more are expected to be sold this year

Of those three million homeowners, at least half will commit the most common mistake of new power mower owners — cutting the grass too short

With the exception of bentgrass lawns, grass which is to remain healthy should be cut not less than 1½ to two inches above the ground in moderate weather, three inches above the ground during hot spells Bentgrass may be safely trimmed three quarters of an inch high

Unless your bathroom has some means of ventilation, you probably notice, after a shower, that the window and mirror are clouded with steam

That's a warning to open the window, just a little and for only a few minutes will be sufficient If you don't open the window, the moisture will be forced to find its own way out As it penetrates the walls, it can cause damage to the materials with which the house was built and may cause the paint outside to blister.

Clean Chimney Cuts Chances Of Roof Fires

Sweeping your own chimney may be farthest from your thoughts of housecleaning duties But the National Board of Fire Underwriters suggests it is best to clean chimneys at least once a year

Defective or overheated chimneys or flues are an important cause of fire in the home They accumulate soot especially if wood or soft coal is burned or if your oil burner is poorly adjusted Also, they become overheated or cracked

As accumulated soot is burned out, sparks may set your roof or other nearby buildings afire

If a professional chimney sweep isn't available, clean the chimneys by mechanical method rather than chemical

You can do this by putting several bricks in a burlap bag, attached firmly to a strong cord Working from the top of the chimney move the bag up and down until soot is removed

You'll need to use both hands for the job so be careful If you use an extension ladder, hook a leg around a rung so you won't fall

Check a chimney for loose bricks and breaks, especially in an attic

Also, the pipes leading to the chimney from your furnace or stove should be in good condition and be protected from inflammable materials by metal or asbestos sheets Rafters and other wood work near the heating plant should be protected by a non-combustible material such as asbestos

Human Dynamo

Sitting still a person generates enough heat — 100 watts — to bring a quart of water to a boil in one hour This time would be shortened to 15 minutes by a running persons say Westinghouse heating experts

Ask ten different people why they read the daily newspaper and you'll probably get ten different answers. That's because the newspaper offers so much under one roof to interest people —local and world-wide news, sports, comics, fashions, gardening, home planning, business news, teen-age columns, human interest pictures, entertainment news, and much more.

Newspaper reading is a local habit done on a national scale. And one habit common to almost all newspaper readers is shopping the paper. As the lady in our illustration says, "It's part of reading the newspaper." That is one of the fundamental reasons why an all time high of almost 57,000,000 newspapers are eagerly bought—and read—every day.

Marble Tile Can Improve Fireplaces

Thin Slabs of Material Ideal for Self-Styled Home Decorating

First, brush brick facing with a stiff brush to remove dust and loose mortar

Second, measure area to be covered A design should be decided upon before going any further

Third, lay out tiles on paper on the floor, making certain that the pattern conforms exactly to your design

Fourth, using a good mastic, start at base and proceed to lay up the tile in the desired pattern Use toothpicks or string as separator between courses of the tile These will be removed later and spaces filled with grout

Using a level, stretch a light string tightly across the fireplace face even with the top of the opening

Fifth before the mastic has set, rake it back from the marble surface in the joints between the tiles and remove toothpicks or string Exercise care to avoid getting it on the surface of the tile

'Unbreakable' Records Not Immune to Damage

How breakable are unbreakable records today? If your youngsters sail your hi fi records around the room, the grooves will break down You still will get "information" from the records but it will not be hi-fi a records company official explains

If you can't keep your child away from your records the best thing to do is outfit him with an inexpensive record player Let him store the records on a simple spindle using a six inch wooden dowel, which stands perpendicular

This isn't recommended for your best records but will serve for training youngsters

Garden Show Previews New Summer Supplies

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
Associated Press Staff Writer

CHAPPAQUA N Y — The most recent estimate that there are now some 40 million gardeners in this country means that garden supplies is a multi-billion dollar business

While the spring flower shows around the nation suffice for most of us 40 million as a preview of spring, the real preview was the recent National Garden Supplies Show in New York where retailers took a look at spring lines in mowers, sprayers, pruning shears, insecticides and the like.

Mittens on Shears

One of the tool manufacturing companies has fitted its grass shears with vinyl mittens to protect our uncallused spring hands from blisters A number of people are selling special little low garden lamps to illuminate the flower beds by night

Tractors with various types of equipment are being turned out in smaller sizes One firm is putting out a special iron tonic for plants suffering, presumably, from tired blood Fertilizer spreaders and leaf sweepers are bursting forth in soft pastel shades.

But, truth to tell we gardeners still need old-fashioned basic equipthrough the years, for our garden tools We still need spade, spading fork, iron rake, hoe, trowel hand cultivator and pruning shears

There are any number of types of sprayers and dusters, and it's up to the gardener to decide which suits him best A wheelbarrow or cart is handy and a watering can hose and ground soaker is almost indispensable

Mowers, Shears Praised

Although there are lots of electrical and motor driven tools available to the gardener with the small plot, I think the two greatest boons are the power mowers and the electric hedge shears

Because almost half of the 40 million are women, it is the habit of power tool manufacturers to indicate how easy their equipment operates by showing a pretty young girl in shorts merrily manning the mower or clipping the hedge It's a wise female customer who investigates whether she really can do the job without asking help

There are electric hedge shears light enough in weight to be handled by a woman and there are some gadgets available for power mowers which make it possible to start them with electric house current

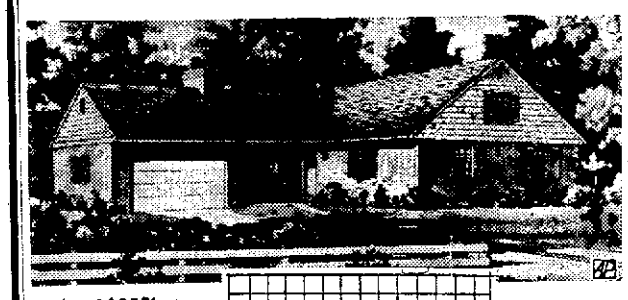
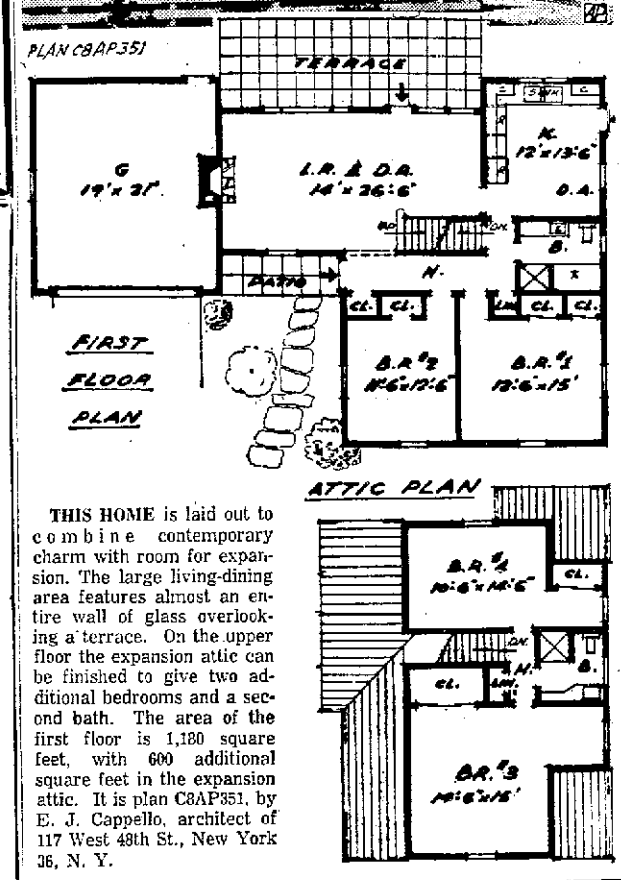
Attic Can Be Finished





THIS HOME is laid out to combine contemporary charm with room for expansion. The large living-dining area features almost an entire wall of glass overlooking a terrace. On the upper floor the expansion attic can be finished to give two additional bedrooms and a second bath. The area of the first floor is 1,180 square feet, with 600 additional square feet in the expansion attic. It is plan C8AP351, by E. J. Cappello, architect of 117 West 48th St., New York 36, N. Y.

Colors Often Govern Mood

The way a room is decorated can make a good deal of difference in how a person feels. Decorating basically should ease tension, not create it.

"People have always known," says Miss Adele Whitfield, furniture stylist, "that music can produce certain moods. But it took a long time to realize visual sensitivity is as important in mood making.

"We know certain colors are restful, while others are exciting. A room that's done in pale blue, for instance, is a lot more conducive to a good night's rest than a brilliant red."

Here's How

Bouquet of Roses Poses Challenge to Art Ability

By VIVIAN BROWN
Associated Press Staff Writer

The next time your man surprises you with a dozen roses, don't plop them in the nearest old vase or jar. Plan a lovely flower arrangement, display it attractively, and maybe he'll keep those roses coming.

Better still, grow your own roses, and maybe he'll visit the florist when your garden beds down for its winter sleep, advises Edna Whitsitt, lecturer, flower arranger and author of "Roses and Home Flower Arranging."

"The rose is a romantic flower, leading itself to beautiful display," she explains. "In colonial days they realized it and combined the distinctive beauty of roses and silver."

There is at least one good piece of silver in almost every home, Mrs. Whitsitt believes. It is something we do not discard from one generation to another. She points out that wedding candelabra, heirlooms such as grandma's samovar, tea or coffee service, bon-bon dishes, water pitchers, Paul Revere bowls and even bread trays may be likely containers for rose flattery, instead of dust collectors in the attic.

Mrs. Whitsitt prefers small needlepoint holders to support her flowers. She puts roses in at least three inches of water as they are "big drinkers."

"It's not necessary to make a design sketch on paper first unless you are exhibiting your roses in a flower show," she says, "but you should have a design plan in mind before you begin your flower arrangement. Good balance, a good skeleton design and silhouette are what you should strive for."

Another important factor in flower arranging is where it will be used, she says. Low, angular, airy arrangements are best for dinner tables so as not to screen out dinner partners, a very high flower arrangement such as one made with candelabra at a formal table, may accomplish the same purpose.

A more imposing arrangement may be used on the buffet or tea table. A small, low, uncluttered arrangement is best for the coffee table. After a bit of practice she says, you'll be amazed at how deft you can become with flowers.

Anyone can grow roses, says Mrs. Whitsitt. If climate isn't right for hybrids, try floribundas—roses that can withstand extremes of temperature. New floribundas offer larger flowers and more constant blooming.

Synchronizing Home Chores Reduces Task

Coordinating Room Cleaning, Laundry Job Can Save Hours

Today's typical homemaker not only cares for her family and keeps her house neat and clean. She also takes an active role in school and community activity.

Gone are the days when grandmother could take the entire day to scrub her house to sparkling brightness.

Luckily, modern manufacturers have perfected materials easy to clean and maintain, and the equipment to clean with ease.

Twin 'Servants'

You can have twin "servants" helping you with the spring housecleaning if you use your automatic washer and dryer to their fullest capacity.

Your laundry units can save hours of work if you synchronize their operation with your cleaning operations. While washing and waxing floors, wash shag rugs in your washer. If they're rubber-backed, hang to dry instead of using dryer.

While cleaning windows, washable drapes and curtains can be washed and readied for rehanging. Many of these will be made of synthetic fabrics and should be washed in cold water.

Wool and synthetic blankets need cold water treatment. Your electric blanket, too. When drying these, preheat your dryer on "high" with several bath towels.

While cleaning bedroom use the automatic washer and dryer to ready storage items such as spreads, robes, quilts, coats, sweaters, heavy work and playclothes, knit underwear.

Other Short Cuts

Do use a light basket to carry cleaning equipment from room to room. Use the "work station" method—clean everything in about an eight-foot radius.

Don't use a dust cloth to clean each slat in a venetian blind separately. Lower the blind to full length and close slats tightly. Then use vacuum cleaner dusting attachment or a special four-fingered brush to clean slats.

Do wax resilient tile floors at frequent intervals to protect finish and avoid permanent stains. Use long-handled mops and brushes whenever possible. When kneeling and bending is necessary, bend knees and keep your back straight.

Defendant Not Certain Of Self, Accepts Prison

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — John Edward Robbins had a choice — freedom or prison. He chose prison.

Pleading guilty to a charge of transporting a stolen car across state lines, he was before Judge J. Leroy Adair who asked Robbins if he believed he could adhere to probation requirements.

Robbins, of Marshalltown, Iowa, said he didn't think so.

Preening Poodle

New Wall Coverings Aid Decoration

Japanese Woven Paper, Plastic and Canvas Murals Used

Another interesting, textured wall covering comes from the Orient. It is a Japanese woven paper. With a process 1300 years old, the Japanese make wallpaper of paper mulberry tree bark or of rush matting or a grass called gampi. With a nubbled surface, it resembles hand-woven cottage fabrics.

A SCRUBBABLE vinyl plastic wall covering is applied like regular wallpaper with the addition of an adhesive to the wheat paste. The covering can be applied to flush doors and furniture with flat surfaces.

Since these murals are printed on canvas, they can be peeled off and moved to another room or another apartment.

First Aid for Ailing House

By ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: What can be done about our sewer problem: Our soil is very sandy, and the drain tiles are laid in pure sand, which seems to be getting into the tiles and clogging them. The tile runs for quite a distance before it empties out. Would it be a good idea to make a concrete pit and let the sewage drain into this before going in to the rest of the tiles?

A: The joints between drain tiles can be and usually are covered halfway round with strips of heavy asphalt roofing felt or sheet metal. Leave the lower half of the joints open so that liquid sewage material will partially drain off into the soil. Fasten the strips in place with wire.

Q: The other day my older child discovered a large gray wasp nest under a corner of our porch. It is nearly the size of a football. How can I get rid of it before warm weather arrives?

A: Fortunately, the insects are dormant during the cold weather, so removal should be simple. Hold a large paper bag under the nest, then slide a wide-blade putty knife or similar tool where the top of the nest is fastened to the flooring. Close the bag tightly as soon as the nest drops in, soak it in kerosene and burn it.

Q: Some household oil accidentally was spilled on my marble top dresser. I tried to wipe it off with scouring powder, then tried lighter fluid, but with no success. Is there anything else I could try?

A: Make a paste of powdered whiting and the lighter fluid (be careful of fire). Put this on the stain thickly and let it dry, then brush it off. Repeat the process if necessary. The lighter fluid (or spot-removing liquid) acts as a solvent on the oil, and the powdered whiting acts like a blotter to draw it out.

Q: I would like to re-do one room in my basement, and plan on using tongue - and - groove planking on the floor.. rather than painting or tiling. Is this a practical idea?

A: If the basement is tight and dry, I think a wood floor will work out satisfactorily, providing you protect the wood from any possible dampness. I'd suggest coating the concrete with about four-inches of asphalt liquid dampproofing. Put down heavy asphalt saturated felt, overlapping the edges of the sheets about one-quarter of their width, then build the flooring on this.

Heavy Rolling Of Lawn May Cause Damage

Packs Earth, Making Plant Growth Hard To Start or Sustain

If you roll your lawn to level it, you goof. Seems rolling a lawn is to accomplish only one purpose. That is to press heaved sod back into the ground after spring thaws.

Most soils will be compacted by rolling, and result in a hard surface where grass simply cannot grow. This is particularly true if the rolled soil is wet.

The idea that a good rolling is needed following the sowing of seed is not completely true. This, too, can cause the soil to be compacted so that the seed cannot grow. If used, the roller should be light in weight.

Rolling does have a definite place when properly done. And rolling is made easy with attachments for riding mowers and for rotary tillers.

Aerating your lawn will:

1. Let air, moisture and food reach down to the roots of grass, so that it will be able to thrive.

2. Leave holes to make it easier for seed to find a place to germinate.

3. Get a soil modifier to the most advantageous depth to build up poor soil.

To do that third job, a spading fork is the best tool. Sink it into the ground to a depth of about six inches and work it back and forth to enlarge the holes before withdrawing it. Otherwise a spike aerator will get the job done easily, especially one attached to your riding mower. These can be purchased from a garden supply or hardware dealer or, in some cities, can be obtained from a rental shop.

Decorate Kitchen With New Curtains

To make cafe curtains, first hang the window rod. Measure from the rod to the sill and add seven inches for hems. Now measure the rod length and double this for curtain width.

To sew: Turn under and pin ½-inch hems at sides of cut fabric. For the top of curtain, turn under ¼-inch and stitch. Then turn down four inches of this edge, right sides together, stitch to form top hem. Turn opposite edge of fabric under and pin for bottom hem.

HOW TO MAKE A CALIPER

A folding rule, once broken, is generally considered useless and simply thrown out of the home workshop. However, here is a handy comparative caliper, useful for taking both inside and outside rough measurements, made from just such a broken folding rule. Two 6-in. sections are easily cut to the shape shown in the sketch by cutting on a jigsaw or by filing. Fine sandpaper can be used to smooth off any remaining rough edges.

Windows Need Top Care for Long Service

Windows deserve the best care you can give them because they do more than almost any component of your home.

They let in light and air, keep cold, rain and snow out, and are important to the appearance of your house, inside and out.

1. Handle windows carefully. Don't jar or drop them.

2. Always use handles or lift when raising or lowering windows.

3. Keep an even humidity in your house. It's better for your health and better for your windows. In winter, use storm windows to eliminate excessive condensation on the glass.

4. Paint or varnish frame and sash of new windows before they are installed. Be sure to cover putty carefully, and overlap slightly on the glass. Don't paint the weather-stripping. Wipe off any paint that gets on this or other metal parts.

5. Keep channel and weather-stripping clean so that sash will slide freely.

6. If you ever have to install new glass, be sure the window sash is dry before applying putty, and that the putty recess is cleaned out thoroughly. Never apply putty in subfreezing temperatures.

7. When new putty is in place, overlap paint or varnish on glass to seal the putty-glass joint. Avoid cleaning the glass until putty and paint are completely dry.

Safety Demands Proper Lighting

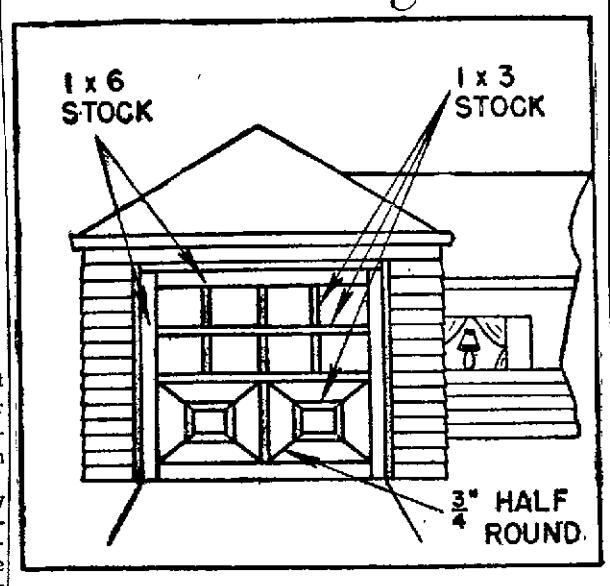
Safety, like charity, begins at home, and there's no better way to improve your home's safety quotient than by checking on your lighting.

Poor lighting accounts for many of the 14,500 fatal falls which occur in the home each year, according to the American Home Lighting Institute, trade association of fixture makers.

Danger areas you'll want to check especially are the yard, entrances, halls, stairways, kitchen bathroom, and oddly enough, the bedroom. More fatal faccidents occur in the bedroom than anywhere else.

Night lights are advisable in halls and stairways, although they are not a substitute for ceiling or wall fixtures. Long halls should have lights at eight-foot intervals.

Decorate Garage Door



DRESS UP garage doors with wood strips and molding. Designs may match trim or window pattern of house if the home craftsman wishes. Decorations are applied with waterproof glue and 6-penny finishing nails. The patterns cast pleasing shadows on an otherwise plain door. If the "window pane" area is painted a blue-green or blue, the illusion of windows is even more pronounced. Diamond - shaped "windows," for top or bottom or both, may be made from 1 x 12-inch lumber or of mitered molding frames.

Decorative effects with lumber of nominal 1 - inch thickness may go on hinged, sliding or overhead doors. There usually is sufficient clearance.

A tight bond of the material to the garage door is necessary so water does not seep in behind the decorative trim. A good paint seal, especially along the upper edge of the joints, will give protection.

Parakeets Get Pretty Homes

Attractive Cages Are Made of Iron, Brass

There are cages for traditional rooms and the most recent influence is oriental. The extravagant look of pagoda-like cages has lent itself well to the current Edwardian trend in many sections. The modern cages are roomy, sturdy and easy to clean.

Why all this sudden interest in bird cages? It's because so many more families have pet birds than ever before. The latest census taken by a pet bird institute revealed that there are 19 million pet birds in the United States.

Will Simplify Task

Plan of Decoration Can Be Broken Into Sections

Break down decorating problems as you used to analyze an algebra question back in your high school days, dividing it into A's, B's and X's. Only divide your home into color areas.

Largest color areas, with the basic color decision, will be in your walls, floor and ceiling. The old-fashioned theory used to be to work from dark to light, from the ground up. This meant a medium-to-dark floor covering, lighter-hued walls and a pale-tinted ceiling. Now, up-to-date decorators are successfully challenging it. They paint a ceiling dark blue, with stark white walls and a sky blue rug.

Whatever your choice, stick to it. Your next, and most expensive move, the purchase of upholstered furniture, depends on it.

The final color area in your well-planned room are your windows. Refer back to your upholstered pieces. Select your basic sofa shade, if it is a patterned fabric, and match it to your plain-hued drapes. Or blend your heavy drapes with the rug. Complete a wonderfully coordinated room by using sheer curtains in hard-to-wear out warp-gauze in colors reminiscent of your ceiling shade.

Planter Holds Interest

VERSATILE planter becomes a magazine holder or waste basket at your whim. Fiberglas planters were inspired by leather hat boxes in vogue at turn of the century. There are 11 decorator color choices.

The planters can be set in a choice of brass, wrought iron, or pewter tripod base. To coordinate with the size of a room and proportions of furniture, the makers have designed the bases in two heights, 16 inches and 30 inches.

Made of durable and washable fiberglas, a planter also may serve as a catch-all for children's toys. Incidentally, seven- and nine-inch versions of the larger models are available in matching colors. They are ideal to hold small plants. Or at party-time, they are used as eye-catching candy and pretzel dishes.

Premixes Are Easy Recipes For Concrete

Home Handy Man Can Do Own Work With Four Formulas

If you can pour water, you can do small to medium sized concrete jobs. With dry, premixed concrete it's just like making waffles on Sunday morning when you add milk and a couple of eggs to a batter that contains flour, shortening and other ingredients.

Four Types

Gravel mix produces strong concrete for building or repairing sidewalks, floors, footings, bases or similar jobs.

Water-tite is a material to stop minor leaks in basements, pools, walls, concrete tanks and vats.

Since water is the main ingredient you supply, it should be clean and free from oil, alkali or acid. Strength, durability and watertightness of the mixture depends primarily on the amount of water used. A strong concrete needs only sufficient water—about one gallon to a 90-pound sack—to permit the mixture to be worked easily. A workable mixture of stiff consistency is recommended for foundations, footings, walls, pavements and similar jobs. A medium mixture may be used for most other purposes.

How To Use

Thoroughly mix the dry mixture and water with a hoe, shovel or trowel to make sure the aggregates are covered with the cement paste for uniform strength. You can mix in a wheelbarrow, bucket or on a board. Use the mixture as soon as possible. In no case should it stand for more than 45 minutes.

When required, forms should be built from sound lumber free from knots and decay. Sheathing lumber dressed on one side and both edges is preferable for easier removal and a good finish for work above ground. To prevent adhesion of the concrete and to facilitate removal, forms should be oiled on the face which contacts the concrete. Crankcase oil or crude oil may be used. But if the finished work is to be painted, oil should not be used

To fix cracks in sidewalks or patios, chisel sides of crack so it forms an inverted "V." With crack wider at bottom than at top, there's better adherence of new concrete to old Clear out debris, wet sides and bottom thoroughly, then apply concrete sand mix. Smooth with trowel. Never apply new concrete to old without thoroughly wetting old surface. You would not get a bond.

Make Trial Sketch

If you're tired of shifting pieces of furniture to see how they will look, an interior decorator has a simple solution.

Make all trial-and-error moves with pencil on paper. Then pick up the furniture.

FOUR FEAR PLAN

MOSCOW (AP)—Whichever comes first, the chicken or the egg, a lot of them are due in the Russian federation by 1960. The government program calls for production of 300,000 tons of chicken meat and eight and one-half billion eggs annually to that date.

Demand Is Rising for Home Freezers

More People Now Using Frozen Food Plans; Better Diets Result

Growing along with the almost limitless demand for frozen foods is the home freezer business. To meet the need for the home freezer owner, manufacturers are incorporating more usable features.

These include easily accessible door storage for frozen juice containers and cartons; adjustable shelves for convenience in storage, battery operated alarms to warn when an accidentally pulled out cord has permitted the temperature to rise about 12 degrees; sloping sides on chest freezers to permit easier access.

"While the processors of frozen food have developed a tremendous business," Mrs. Adelaide Fellows, a director of home economics, says "no one can even hazard a close guess as to the millions of pounds of meat, the millions of cartons and glass or plastic containers of frozen food that are prepared and frozen at home in this country."

Meanwhile, a study has turned up some interesting facts about freezers.

That is the report of 78 per cent of a group of Texas homemakers in a survey by a freezer concern.

Most notable change in family diets is that most of the freezer food plan members eat more meat and better meat than they did before joining a food plan.

TOUCH ON TOE PEDAL rolls out freezer in new straightline refrigerator. Foot pedal also opens magnetic refrigerator door. Freezer stores up to 175 pounds of food and two removable bins lift out for easy cleaning. Square design leads to "built-in" kitchen look.

Suds Clean Plastic

If you are cleaning plastic that is slightly soiled, squeeze a cloth or sponge in sudsy water and wipe the plastic, being careful to overlap your strokes so that no dusty streaks remain. Rinse with clear warm water.

POLITICAL EDUCATION

Tips on Painting Exterior of Home

1. Choose a body color to blend or contrast with the roof, the largest single area of unbroken color.

2. Consider the natural materials, such as stone, brick and natural wood. These blend well with neutral colors and also are attractive with contrasting turquoise.

3. Take a look at colors of neighboring houses. Don't repeat the color unless it's white, or don't contrast the color too severely.

4. Choose color for climate conditiong. White or light colors will reflect heat for a cooler home. Dark roof and body colors absorb heat for a warmer house.

They conduct state, regional and national meetings to keep themselves abreast of their field. Major universities regularly conduct seminars for these agents, informative courses on new developments in general insurance. For his job, the qualified, independent insurance agent spends his life in constant study.

Dean & Barry House Paint
new Poly-Lin base defends against premature aging and dull-out

Now is a good time to put a searching eye on the paint job outside your home. Has it dulled-out, aged prematurely, taken on that "needs paint" look. Then take our word and try Dean & Barry house paint with Poly-Lin for real dollar-stretching economy.

Poly-Lin is the wonderful new super-processed linseed oil that defends much longer against aging, dull-out, tired-looking homes. It gives a tighter, tougher, uniformly stronger paint film. No weak spots to prematurely fall victim to weather and wear, take on a spotty appearance. Good news, too: Dean & Barry house paint with Poly-Lin makes possible a whiter white, colors so dressed-up bright.

About the cost? Less than most house paints made with ordinary linseed oil. Far less than any other brand we've ever known when you count the extra beauty and longer-lasting house paint job you get. Come in for a free estimate, or ask your painter-decorator to see us for the paint that really makes your home "look like a million."
